BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Lee College Board of Directors is the legislative body that determines school policy. The board selects and employs the college president; this decision is subject to approval by the General Executive Committee. The gentlemen of the board also determine the salaries of faculty members and other school employees. Charges for tuition, board, private lessons, and all other school fees are regulated by the Board of Directors.

The members of the board here at Lee College are men representing different facets of life. The five pastors serving on the board include: Kenneth Adams, Robert Daugherty, David Poitier, Lane Sargent, and Richard Tyler. There are six businessmen serving on the board: Lorenzo Walker, Bill Higginbotham, Arthur Hodge, Don Medlin, H. Bernard Dixon, and John White. The chairman of the board is Dr. Robert Fisher, state overseer of North Georgia. Dr. Cecil B. Knight acts as the liaison from the General Executive Committee. The Board of Directors meets twice annually.

DR. LAMAR VEST PRESIDENT OF THE COLLEGE

Lee College—a small college that makes a big difference. Our president, Dr. R. Lamar Vest, makes a significant difference in our college experience.

When asked how Lee College's new slogan came into being, Dr. Vest replied,

"It came out of a message I preached during a Sunday night chapel entitled "How to Change Your World." It was obvious that God wants Lee College to be a college that makes a difference in this world."

He believes that Cleveland, Tennessee would not be the place that it is without the presence of Lee College. He states,

"The student body, faculty and administration of Lee College make a powerful impact for good on this city. In fact," he stresses, "Lee College people are having a positive impact on society wherever they are . . . and we have alumni in almost every state in the USA and in many countries around the world."

When asked if Lee College has contributed more to him or has he contributed more to Lee College, Dr. Vest quickly answered,

"I don't have to think about that question. Lee College has contributed far more to me than I ever could to it. Lee College is so much a part of my life that it occupies most of my waking hours . . . and sometimes my sleeping hours. Being at Lee College has certainly made me a better person."

Dr. Vest is genuinely concerned with campus betterment and is anticipating several improvements for the future. Some of the priorities include renovation of the old library, new music building, student center and cafeteria, and improved dormitories. A campus radio station and T.V. studio are also on the drawing board. Dr. Vest even hopes that Lee College can expand its educational opportunities by offering graduate degrees in the not too distant future. He says,

"I think there is a strong possibility that Lee College may someday become a university. In order for us to continue meeting the needs of our students and of the church, we will have to become more flexible in our approach to education. In order to do that, we will have to move toward something of a university structure."

Dr. Vest's advice to graduating seniors is quite simple. He says,

"Keep your priorities in order. Remember what's really important in life. Some things that you think are so important now will not seem very important in the light of future events in your life. Too many of us give first-rate attention to second-rate causes. We need to put first things first."

Thank you Dr. Vest for your loyalty and dedication to Lee College. Because of your leadership, Lee College has its priorities in order.

Vice President for the Office of Institutional Advancement

The Office of Institutional Advancement, under the direction of Dr. Paul Conn, experienced a highly successful year at Lee College.

Dr. Conn, vice president for institutional advancement, holds the rank of professor of psychology at Lee. His impressive academic credentials include a Ph.D. from Emory University and recent postgraduate work at Harvard University. He taught psychology for fourteen years before assuming his new position, the demands of which greatly limit his classroom time.

Dr. Conn is a prolific author of nonfiction. Several of his eighteen books have appeared on national best-seller lists. He also has received numerous awards for his newswriting. Evidence of his rigorous standards for achievement is highly visible in his capacity as vice president.

Basically, institutional advancement governs all aspects of the college operation which make contact with the outside world. Recruitment, alumni affairs, development, community and public relations, and special events are all coordinated under the auspices of this office.

Ambitious goals were set and have been achieved in the area of development. A drive to fund one new endowment scholarship per month in 1985 resulted in the addition of thirteen new scholarships for the year. That same goal is in effect for 1986. Funding for three scholarships in January has put the 1986 drive off to a great start.

In addition, institutional advancement's recruitment efforts, such as "College Day" and "recruitment nights" in major cities, are paying off with increased enrollment. In each of the last two years, enrollment increased over the previous year.

If this premier year is indicative of future performance, the Office of Institutional Advancement promises to steer Lee College to a position of prominence in the academic community.

ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL

LAUD O. VAUGHT DEAN OF COLLEGE

Dr. Laud O. Vaught has served as Dean of Lee College since 1980. As chief academic officer of the College, he supervises the services of the offices of Associate Dean, Department Chairpersons, Dean of Admissions, Librarian, and Academic Advising. He also proposes recommendations to the President concerning faculty and academic appointments.

Dr. Vaught took a well-deserved six-month leave of absence this year following heart surgery. During his absence, Dr. Ollie Lee, associate dean and director of institutional research and planning, served as Acting Dean as well as coordinated his own office.

Great strides were taken this year through the efforts of Drs. Vaught and Lee. They implemented a new faculty evaluation plan which is part of the College's five-year, long-range plan. Dr. Lee was assisted by an academic/administrative team consisting of all department chairpersons and program directors which met on a regular basis to review the progress of academic programs.

These accomplishments are just representative of those things which make Lee College what it is: a Christian college where academic excellence is the norm.

THE DEPARTMENT OF BEHAVIORAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

A small college's ability to make a big difference in the course of human affairs begins in the classroom. The behavioral and social science department, according to chairperson Dr. Bill Balzano, "is in a strategic position to make a difference." Enlightening students about human behavior better enables them to comprehend the many aspects of man as a spiritual and social being. When the student understands human behavior from a Christian perspective, the doorway to change is opened. According to Dr. Balzano, "Through intense study of man and his behavior comes an understanding, and with that understanding comes assistance in changing behavior in a positive way."

If the college community can make an impact, the local community should provide the starting point. According to Dr. Murl Dirksen, "Lee College is a part of Cleveland and should be involved in social issues and social justice and responsibility." As Dr. Dirksen also points out, "The college is composed of students from every state resulting in a national diversity and heterogeneity of American culture." Since a significant number of foreign students attend Lee College, awareness of world conditions is also a necessity for members of the college community. Dr. Dirksen states: "We need to be aware of international issues because we are part of an international church and need to relate to the increasing number of international students at Lee."

Dr. William Snell, professor of history, has been with the department since 1970. Dr. Snell states: "The faculty and the atmosphere at Lee help students to improve and adjust to various problems such as college life or spiritual problems." Helping students better themselves is fundamental to the creation of a better society and a better world.

In the department two professors received doctorate degrees in 1985. Dr. Balzano received his degree in May, and Dr. Karen Mundy received her degree in December. Bob Fisher is currently pursuing a doctoral degree at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

The behavioral and social science department is one of the largest departments on campus. According to Dr. Balzano, "We will be graduating our largest class in 1986. Many students continue their education in postgraduate work pursuing masters and doctoral degrees." Christian psychologists, sociologists, and historians are needed in today's society. The goal of the department is awareness of man's dilemma and solutions for that dilemma. With this goal in mind, Lee College graduates can act as catalysts for constructive changes in the modern world.

AWARD KIM HATHAWAY

Kim Hathaway received the Behavioral and Social Sciences Award. She has served as a senior psychology assistant for the 1985-86 school year. She is married to Paul Hathaway and they have two children Karli and Paul.

THE DEPARTMENT OF BIBLE AND CHRISTIAN MINISTRIES

No matter what profession a student chooses while at Lee College, he or she will find that his profession becomes a ministry. The focal point of the classes taught by the department of Bible and Christian Ministries is to help each student develop spiritually even if he or she is not planning to pursue a full-time ministry. This is the purpose of an eighteen-hour religion requirement.

The department is undergoing several changes this year, which, according to Chairman Dr. John Sims, will have a lasting impact on the students at Lee.

Two faculty members, Dr. L. E. Painter and Mr. Elmer Odom, retired in December, and Mrs. Beatrice Odom plans to retire in May. These valuable faculty members will be missed by the entire campus. Dr. Sims, however, feels that despite the loss the department will be very strong next year as a result of the addition of several new faculty members including Mr. Robert Herron and Mr. Larry Bergeron. Both men are former students of Lee College. Mr. Herron came to Lee last fall, and Mr. Bergeron was hired as a temporary, full-time faculty member this spring.

With the addition of several new courses, the department of Bible and Christian Ministries is striving to blend the academic and practical sides of ministry. It has fulfilled its obligation to each student by providing a biblical, theological, and practical basis for responsible Christian living in the modern world; and, therefore, the department is making an impression on the students and through them on the world.

The Scriptures enjoin us to honor those to whom honor is due (Romans 13:7). In keeping with that wisdom, the Administrative Council, the Faculty of the Department of Bible and Christian Ministries, and special guests of Lee College met at the Chalet Restaurant on February 24 to honor three faculty persons on the occasion of their retirements from service to Lee College.

Elmer F. Odom (1950-1985) retired as Professor of History and Religion. An alumnus of Bob Jones University, he earned the M.A. degree from George Peabody College for Teachers and the M.Div. degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. Among other numerous committee assignments, Professor Odom sponsored Pi Delta Omicron, the Religion Honor Society.

Beatrice H. Odom (1951-1986) retired as Associate Professor of Christian Education. Taking her undergraduate education at Bob Jones University, she earned the M.A. degree from George Peabody College for Teachers. Mrs. Odom directed TACT, the Training Association for Christian Teaching.

Luther E. Painter (1976-) (1980-1985) retired as Associate Professor of Pastoral Studies. A graduate of Davis and Elkins College, he earned the D.Min. degree from Lexington Theological Seminary. Bringing a broad and varied background of ministerial service to Lee College, Dr. Painter directed the Ministerial Club.

Elmer, Bea, and L. E. contributed immensely to Lee College. They are loved and esteemed by peers and students alike, and eminently worthy of every accolade. We wish for them God's richest blessings in the days ahead!

THE DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS

Lee College's Business Department endeavors to prepare students for personally fruitful and socially useful careers in business. 1985-86 will be remembered as a year for advancing that purpose. This was the first year of operation for the Cletus Benton Memorial Business Center and the new Computer Information Systems (C.I.S.) major received a boost.

The Cletus Benton Excellence in Business Award will be given to a junior this year and with it a partial scholarship for next year. Four other scholarships have been established for business students in the Cleveland area: two for incoming freshmen from Bradley and Cleveland high schools and two for transfer students from Cleveland State Community College and Tomlinson College.

The Business Department was the recipient of a Wang mini-computer accompanied by twelve work stations and two printers. This equipment was provided by the Wang Corporation and Southern Guaranty. The Business Department sponsored a computer seminar for faculty and staff during the first semester.

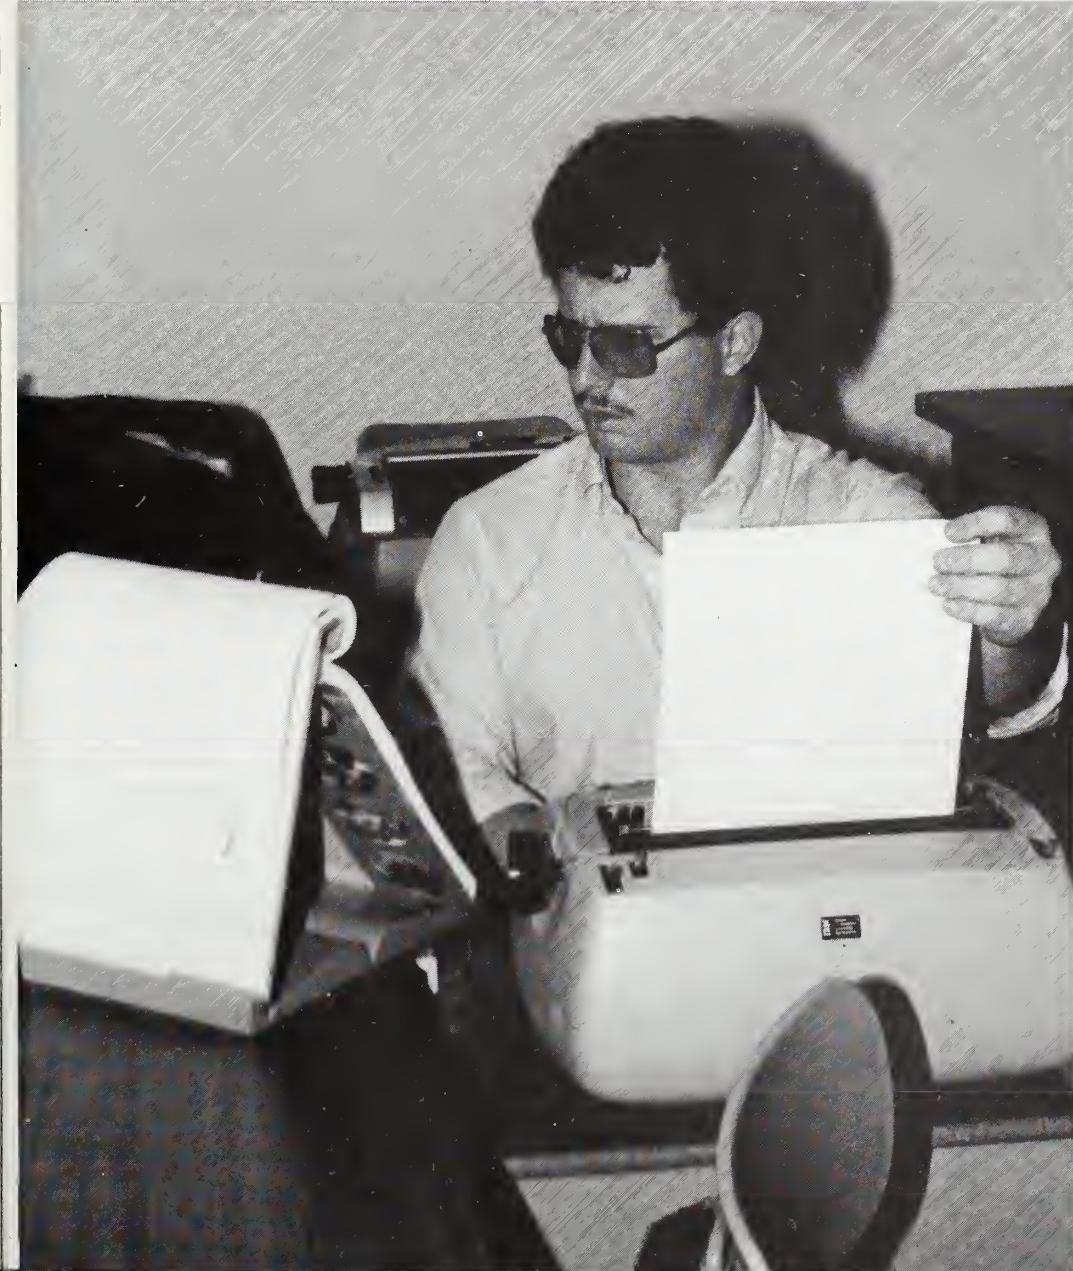

Additional courses are being added in the area of office administration and management. These include Advanced Word Processing & Records Management, Office Management, and Production Management. These courses will help meet state requirements in business education.

AWARD JEFF ROBINSON

Jeff Robinson was awarded the departmental award for business. Among his activities at Lee, he is Vice-President of Phi Beta Lambda business society and Alpha Chi Honor Society; President of Alph Gamma Chi and a member of the Lee Singers.

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Lee College is a special place for special people, and that is exactly what the Teacher Education Department consists of. As the role of the teacher becomes increasingly complex, it takes that special kind of person to make a commitment to the classroom.

More and more attention is being focused on the current and upcoming problems of the teaching profession. Discussion of the critical teacher shortage poses many questions in the minds of prospective teachers, but the departments of elementary and secondary, health and physical education continue preparing and producing students for a classroom ministry.

The faculty in these departments realize more than ever the importance of providing qualified teachers for the school systems. As Dr. Bilbo, director of teacher education, says, "good opportunities to witness to children" are developed in the classroom.

Blessed with dedicated and well-qualified faculty and staff members, these departments take pride in maintaining a quality Teacher Education Program. Much of this success stems from the faculty's personal concern for their students. As one student emphasizes, "There is a personal touch between students and faculty at Lee that other colleges and universities don't have."

THE DEPARTMENT OF LANGUAGE ARTS

C. DIRKSEN, P. SCARBOROUGH, R. LINDSAY, E. FRENCH, E. BARRICK, J. RAHAMUT, P. PUTT, S. WOODS, R. BARRICK, C. BEACH

Neatly tucked away on the fourth floor of the Walker Memorial Building, you will find the Language Arts Department of Lee College. To some it appears a distant, obscure land never to be traversed, yet to others it is the hub and heartbeat of life.

Led by Chairperson Dr. Carolyn Dirksen, the Language Arts Department has maintained a strong and vital academic standard on the Lee College campus. Its stringent reputation of academic excellence is a direct reflection upon its faculty. The Language Arts faculty brings a diverse background of knowledge to the department. All members of the faculty freely offer their professional expertise to their students.

One of the basic goals of the department is to better prepare its students for life after Lee. With this goal in mind, the department provides a wide selection of courses for preparation in a variety of majors and minors. The bachelor of arts degree is offered in English, Communication, and Modern Foreign Languages including French, German, and Spanish.

There are currently twenty-six majors in the division of English, an increase of two over last year. The English major revolves around course offerings in composition, grammar, and literature drawing heavily upon American, English, and World literature.

The department has fifteen majors in the division of Modern Foreign Languages. This major places emphasis upon exposure to two languages rather than only one. Those involved in foreign languages are very proud of their new and updated language learning facilities housed in the Writing Center.

Effective communication seems to be imperative for many students at Lee. The Language Arts Department boasts sixty-five majors in the division of Communication. This program of study provides practical experience to prepare its students for professional work in all areas of the media.

In every section of the department the faculty display an ever-present concern for enriched scholastic achievements in the arts of language usage by its students.

THE DEPARTMENT OF

MUSIC AND FINE ARTS

The Department of Music and Fine Arts is under the leadership of Dr. Jim Burns. The department trains musicians and sends them throughout the country. Attitudes are changing and musical tastes are being broadened as churches become receptive to a wide variety of musical praises, such as are heard here on the Lee College campus. Many church people, once comfortable only with quartets or volunteer choirs, are found enjoying themselves at cantatas, performances with full choirs and trained orchestras.

The department offers ensembles such as the Lee Singers, Ladies of Lee, Campus Choir, Lee Players, Handbells, Lee Symphonic Band as well as many others.

Music is a medium of communication. To communicate well, the musician must develop his knowledge and skill in the field. To the Christian musician, it is a grand opportunity that each note, sacred or secular, may communicate the emotions of his soul—in this case, a soul saved by grace.

The faculty members who teach are Chairperson Dr. Jim Burns; Associate Professors Bertha Gugler, David Horton, Roosevelt Miller; Assistant Professor Philip Morehead; and instructors Virginia Horton, Philip Thomas and Michael Brownlee.

These teachers provide students an opportunity to prepare for advanced study in music; studio teaching careers, teaching music in public or private schools; performance and service careers as ministers of music. It also provides musical experience, performance outlets and academic training for all interested college students.

In the visual arts the department offers each student the opportunity to become aware of his artistic heritage and the role of arts in today's society. The Art Appreciation course is also offered to all students who wish to use it as part of the fine arts requirement in the general core. The art teacher is Byron Lipscombe.

No one will ever doubt the significance of the department on our campus. We have all been blessed by the various groups on campus; we are proud of the way they represent us in other cities, states, and countries.

The Department of Natural Sciences and Mathematics is one of the most unique departments on campus, offering courses for both the general education student and the most avid science and math enthusiast. The instructors are as diverse as the subject matter. The courses in biological and natural sciences are taught by Dr. Robert O'Bannon, Dr. Morris Riggs, Dr. Clifford Dennison, Ronald Harris, Dr. Ray Hughes, Jr., and Milton Riley. Dr. Lois Beach, department chairperson, and Dr. J. L. McPherson teach the chemistry courses; Dr. Roland McDaniel and Robert Griffith handle all instruction in mathematics.

Dr. Beach feels that one of the primary goals of the department is to see that the students receive the academic background necessary to achieve their own goals. Judging from the record, the department has succeeded. There are currently over thirty Lee alumni attending graduate school, and the success of other graduates cannot be overestimated. Perhaps the greatest compliment is the loyalty of the alumni, who faithfully give financial support to meet the department's needs.

Of course, the number one goal of the department is the spiritual development of each student, and every effort is made to foster spiritual growth. The instructors attempt to integrate spiritual applications into the curriculum and to promote positive Christian values in everyday life. Their ultimate purpose is to produce Christian

Pentecostal Resource Center

WILLIAM G. SQUIRES LIBRARY
HAL BERNARD DIXON, JR. PENTECOSTAL RESEARCH CENTER

The building rises out of the landscape majestically overwhelming the innocent passersby. It is the new library on campus, formally known as the Pentecostal Resource Center. Funded by the Church of God, Lee College, and the School of Theology, it houses the William G. Squires Library—the main library for the schools—and the Hal Bernard Dixon, Jr., Pentecostal Research Center—a special collection of books and archival materials depicting the history of the Church of God and the Pentecostal movement. Space is provided on the lower level for an up-to-date media center, which has not yet been funded. Materials are acquired and cataloged on the Online Computer Library System. To assist with reference work the library subscribes to a Bibliographic Retrieval Service. As soon as funds become available, an automated library system for circulation will be instituted.

The P.R.C. is staffed by fifteen workers, headed by Mrs. Frances Arrington who acts as the director. New budgeting has allowed for the employment of two full-time and one part-time personnel. Up from the cutback in 1980 of three staff members, the new budget also provides for the employment of another full-time librarian.

The institution serves the public as well as the students with its wide range of materials. States Mrs. Arrington, "I love it. I love having more space and more efficient space." The new structure is symbolic of growth, and at Lee College that means Christ's Kingdom is growing.

CAMPUS LIFE

WHAT IS CAMPUS LIFE

Events, friends, relationships, service, etc.

Campus Life. What is it? It is a part of every Lee student, just like every Lee student is a part of campus life. Campus Life is most often thought of as the hundreds of activities that take place every academic year. From the major events that involve hundreds of students, such as Homecoming, Sadies, and POF, to the club meetings that involve only a handful, we participate in campus life every day. Yet, campus life is not limited to the events that are charted, approved and promoted, it is also represented by the on-the-spot impromptu events like the water fights in Hughes Hall or the games of ziff-zaff-zork in the cafeteria.

Just as many different types of people are represented on the Lee Campus, there are as many different campus lifestyles. The friends, dorms, and organizations we choose combine to help us lead a life that may be different from another's. Unfortunately we often judge our fellow students by the jersey they wear. We separate ourselves from those who are different from us; find comfort with those who are like us. We build a wall around our campus life, blocking the view we have of each other. If Lee College is to make a difference in the world, its student body will need to make a difference within itself. The walls must come down. We must accept the challenge: get to know students who are different from ourselves, for with knowledge comes understanding. Understanding will lead to cooperation in working together to make a difference.

Upsilon President D. Blair with singer David Baroni.

Old friends and new friends are always ready and able to pose for a VINDAUGA photographer.

Homecoming is one of the year's major events.

Not all campus life activities are restricted to campus. The Men of Alpha Gamma Chi, along with several other social-service and religious clubs, perform many charitable services for the Cleveland community. Here, Chi President J. Robinson and Chaplain R. Parker cut firewood for over fifteen needy families.

C. Peters participates in that beginning of the year favorite activity—unpacking.

NEW AND OLD CONVERGE IN AUG.

Recruitment efforts raise enrollment.

It's mid-August and you begin to feel the excitement. Soon you will relieve yourself of your summer responsibilities and prepare for the great pilgrimage to Cleveland, Tennessee. If you are a Freshman, you pack your bags with hesitation: you are leaving your home and friends; you are going to a new place. You are going to be on the bottom of the totem pole once again. The upperclassman feels differently. It has been great to be at home and see old friends and enjoy mom's cooking, but you miss your college friends greatly; you have got to get back. You load your car and say good-bye—you're off.

The upperclassman can't arrive quick enough. As he drives he looks forward to the year with anticipation. The freshman drives in the state of confusion. "Have I done the right thing? Will I be accepted? Is it too late to turn back?" The journey ends and both have arrived to Mecca—Lee College. The freshman seeks to find his dorm. In contrast the upperclassman heads for Church Street to see who is on campus. He spots some friends, stops his car, and screams out their names, runs to his friends and they embrace and behave as if they haven't seen each other in three years, not three months.

Both sets of pilgrims unpack. The freshman brings his trophies from high school to represent that he is someone. Upperclassmen unpack their trophies from Lee. The freshman is lost in the maze of registration; to the upperclassman it is old hat. However, after the excitement dies down and the year progresses, the distinct difference between the two pilgrims decreases. In fact, when Christmas break is almost over the freshman has the same feelings the upperclassman did five months earlier.

SIGMA BRINGS A TOUCH OF THE TROPICS

A visit from McGarret, awesome tans, Hawaiian cuisine, and Don Ho transport us to the beaches of Maui.

Sigma Nu Sigma Luau

This year the students got a break from the everyday surroundings of the school cafeteria and dined in beautiful scenery while being entertained. Thanks are due to the ladies of Sigma Nu Sigma who sponsored a luau for the entire campus on September 24th. The setting for the luau was in the Alumni Park, which was decorated to promote a Hawaiian atmosphere. The cuisine for the evening consisted of Polynesian chicken, rice, and fresh pineapple, which was catered by the cafeteria staff. Everyone brought blankets to sit on and most students donned colorful leis around their necks to get into the Hawaiian spirit. There was entertainment to suit the taste of just about everyone. Dr. O'Bannon and Dr. Vaught provided comedy, as well as the Sigma Nu Sigma Big Brothers, Delta Zeta Tau, Alpha Gamma Chi and Upsilon Xi. Harvest was the main attraction with Danny Murray adding a little levity here and there. "Goober goes Hawaiian" (alias Mark Harris) was a highlight and Rocky Chavis's imitation of Don Ho ended the program with a bang. There were also various contests, such as "best tan" and limbo in which the winners were given door prizes. Such an event as this helps in breaking the monotony of everyday student life as well as providing fun and a time of fellowship.

CHI STARTS THE YEAR ROLLING

250 people skating and falling to top 40 tunes, couple skates, races, and Jeff Kallay showing off.

It has been a tradition since the early 70's—the Alpha Gamma Chi semester kick-off Skating Party. Hundreds of freshmen and upperclassmen alike turn out. Most use the skates provided by the Roller Coaster Skating Arena; however, a few have their own skates. Having your own skates at a Chi skating party symbolizes a part of your past. It tells others that when you were in high school, you were a member of the skating crowd. Your skills may be a little rusty, but within an hour, your skating is refined. For others, it is difficult to make just one lap. You skate in terror as some speed by you swerving in and out of the masses. You look on in disgust as you realize he is skating backwards also. The DJ cranks top 40 and dance tunes, and the lights flash, and the mirrored ball spins. Those with their own skates show off by performing stunts in the middle of the floor. They do things that the novice skater would not do with skates off. The pace changes as slow, romantic music is played and it is announced that it is a couple skate. Soon the party is over and the novice skater celebrates; never have two hours gone by so slow. The experienced skater is the last to clear the floor. Though both skate differently, the next day both walk the same: in pain, due to sore ankles, bruised bottoms, or blistered soles.

The buddy system proves to be helpful for beginners.

Skaters take a rest as the Men of Chi introduce themselves.

T. Racheals and M. Adams lace-up for some action.

Some Chi-men hug the wall in fear of the perils of the skating floor.

D. Wesson and K. Kelley concentrate on their performance as they lace their skates.

An enjoyable afternoon spent in Medlin Hall.

"Crockett and Tubbs?" No, it's Lee College's very own Dorm Vice—"Lumbi and Tubby" played by R. Chavis and T. Morrison.

ROOMMATE GAME

As always, D. Horton hosts the Roommate Game.

Assisted by one of her residents, Dorm Supervisor V. Mosier stirs up some Southern Hospitality—a tradition that the male visitors to Cross Hall anticipate.

FEEL THE HEAT OF THE DORM VICE

Open dorms and the Roommate Game highlight Residential Life Week.

P. Stone shows D. Dyar photos of herself that would normally never leave her room.

With the largest percentage of Lee students living in the dormitories, Director of Housing Larry Pemberton successfully coordinated the third annual Residential Life Week during the last week of September.

The main purpose of Residential Life Week is to acquaint non-dormitory dwellers of the college community with dorm life. Administration, faculty, and staff were invited to tour the dorms during open house. Never before and never again will all the rooms in a dorm be so clean. With residents competing for the $50 room management award, the white glove test was standard procedure.

The week is highlighted with the campus-wide finals of the Roommate Game. Before the competition begins, the RAs provide entertainment. This year a slide show and "Dorm Vice" allowed the RAs to laugh along with students about the way some dorm students perceive the housing staff.

Each dorm sent its Roommate Game champions hoping that they would represent their hall well. Some did, others did not. Popular questions this year were "What book other than a textbook did your roommate buy this year?" and, "If your roommate could be an animal, what kind would he or she say he or she would be?"

The winners this year were Dana Reid and Donna Hardin from East Wing. With their reward, they threw a pizza party for that dorm.

Residential Life Week involves the whole campus. It allows dorm residents to take pride in where they live and show that pride to others.

THE LIFESTYLE OF A MINSTREL.

5 States in 3 days and a total of 12 hours of sleep.

The lifestyle of a Lee Singer is comparable to that of a traveling minstrel. Singers leave the campus to perform engagements nearly every weekend. Many of the group's members live out of suitcases all week, finding packing to be a futile job. Life on the road can be glamorous, but most of the time it is burdensome. Many Singers complain of fatigue and lack of study time. They also say waking up and not knowing what state you are in other than the state of confusion can lead to a lack of autonomy about your surroundings. The price is high and the cost great, yet the rewards members of the group feel outlast any of the burdens.

The bus becomes a second home for members of the Singers family.

Substituting for M. Evans, B. Rodgers beats out the rhythm.

C. Miller is in despair, as she realizes she left her luggage two hundred miles back.

Members of 2nd Edition have an even more extensive touring schedule.

THE BROCCOLI BOWL RETURNS

Lee ends up point-shy of championship.

BRYANT + COVENANT + LEE = BROCCOLI

Through the joint effort of Dean Duncan and Student Government, the Broccoli Bowl returned after a six year absence. Through his office, Dean of Students Paul Duncan worked with delegates of Bryan and Covenant Colleges and coordinated the games triumphant return. Bryan College was chosen to host the Bowl.

Dean Duncan quickly appointed a chairperson for each of the divisions of competition. The chairpersons were responsible for the recruitment of participants in their area. This was not always an easy task. The chairpersons received a number of reasons from those they tried to recruit. "I don't want to get up that early," "I have to study Saturday," or "I think I'll be out of town" became familiar words to the chairpersons' ears.

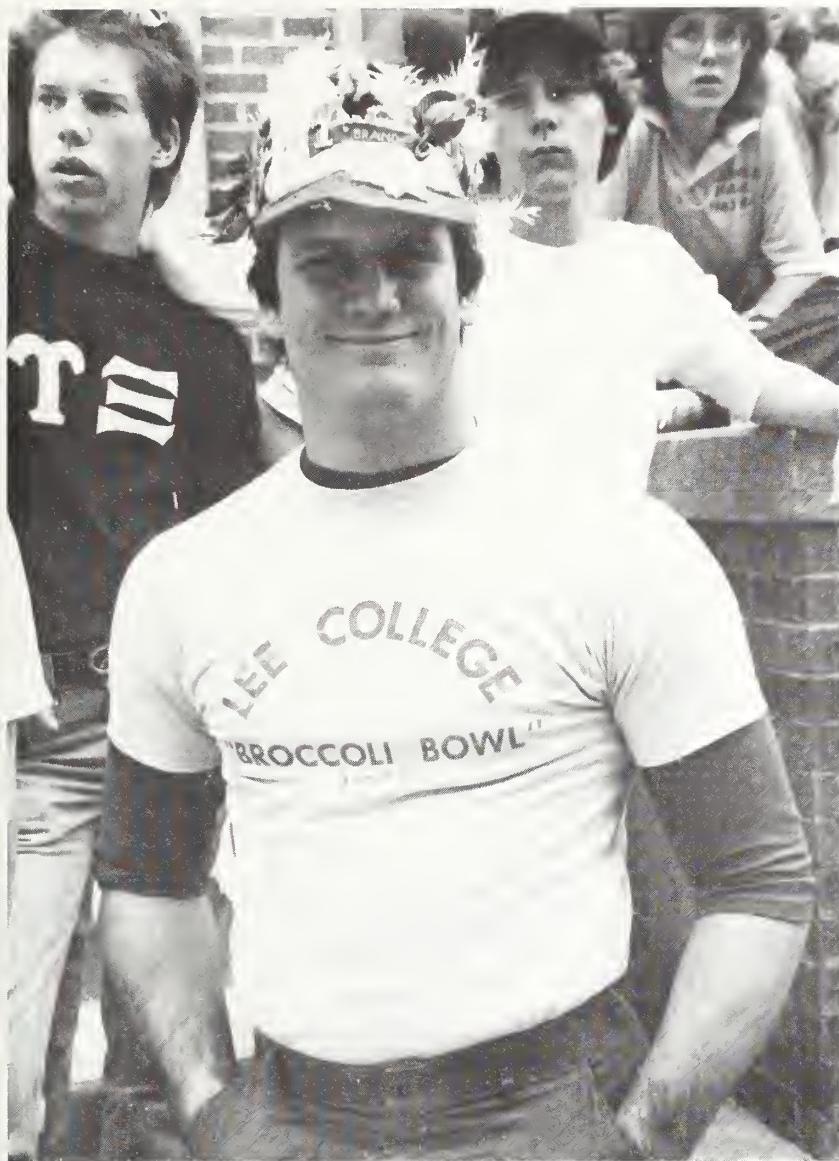

Finally the truly dedicated and spirited students were chosen to compete. On Saturday at 7:00 a.m., October 13, buses and cars were loaded up and Lee went out ready to come back winners.

The competition was tough, but Lee made a strong showing scoring either first or second in the majority of events.

After seven hours, J. Fabregas finally won the championship game.

Team sports drew a number of fans from each college.

At lunch, P.F.M. catered a superb outdoor cookout in Bryan's amphitheatre. Bryan students provided quality music and an air of fellowship prevailed.

After lunch, the track and field events took place, with nearly all three schools' participants turning out to watch both Lee's men and women teams win.

Covenant was shut out early in the games; it came down to a battle for first place between Lee and the hosting college. The last event was the Barbershop Quartet which took place in Bryan's main auditorium. The score was very close and Lee's barbershop quartet had not arrived yet. Finally, just as the competition began and Bryan's quartet was singing, John McCloud and his quartet made their entrance. They sang their best, yet they took second place and after the points were tallied, Lee took second place in the overall standing. Bryan had won, but Lee is prepared to make a clean sweep and bring the Broccoli Trophy home next year.

Competition ceased during the fellowship lunch.

THE BRADY'S HAUNT CREATURE FEATURE

Outrageously costumed students fill the Brown Auditorium

First place winners—The Wilson Street Gang.

With the Old Auditorium being closed permanently, the Ladies of Delta Zeta Tau were faced with finding a new home for their annual Creature Feature. After a debate on whether to hold it off or on campus, they chose the Brown Auditorium. The decorations committee worked hard to duplicate that special feeling the Old Auditorium had. The Brown Auditorium was packed to standing room only as the program began and the Brady Bunch made their debut.

Master of Ceremonies Jeff Kallay oversaw the costume contest. The theme for this year was "Provocative." Fisher the Flasher, the Love Children, and Boy George made it to the finals, but the judges Matt Willits and Debbie Murray chose the controversial Wilson Street Gang as the winners.

Once the excitement died down, the feature was shown on the big screen. This year it was Walt Disney's production of Ray Bradbury's novel of love's triumphant victory over evil, "Something Wicked This Way Comes."

HOW TO CATCH A MAN

Broken bones, wagon rides and cozy fires make up Sadies.

WRITTEN BY A GIRL TO HER DATE—

Chase day is near,
So you better get prepared;
I'm ready and willing,
And not the least bit scared.

What is this you tell me,
With sureness in your eyes;
"There's no way you'll catch me!"
That's really not too wise.

I'd hate to see it happen,
For your ego to be hurt;
When you have to eat your words,
While you're lying in the dirt.

That little blue doll,
Is as good as mine;
Why don't you give it up?
Just go ahead and decline.

I know I'm a girl,
Feminine and delicate;
Let me tell you something,
You ain't seen nothing yet!

I'll see you on Friday,
Out on campus somewhere;
That is, if you're willing,
That is, if you dare!

Is all this pain worth $10?

In the beginning the guys come on strong, but in the end it's survival of the fittest.

"Mah Bruther, Yooou hwere lucky . . ."

E. Morales and D. Gomez celebrate the humiliation of their dates.

Sadie Hawkins chase day is the day that all the girls get a chance to prove their dominance and the guys try to escape a bruised ego. If the guy happens to get caught it's because "I let her get me" or "I felt sorry for her." But we all know the real reason. The girl (or mass of girls) just happened to out-smart the guy. Or was it because his shirt was easy to hold onto? This is a game of blood and guts. Of course, chase day is not the only exciting part of Sadie Hawkins. The next night everyone gets together in close proximity on haywagons, trying to avoid the ones with flats. Then it is time to ride out to the O'Bannon farm where boxes of chicken and great entertainment await. Upon arriving, everyone tries to choose the perfect spot just close enough to a bonfire and with a perfect view of the stage.

The entertainment this year began with Ron Gilbert who sang the "Sadie Hawkins Blues." Other entertainers were Alpha Gamma Chi, Sigma Nu Sigma, Delta Zeta Tau, Upsilon Xi and the Brotherhood. The evening was topped off with a rendition of "Born to Go to Lee" by Bruce (alias Vince Stone) and fireworks which set the mood for the romantic ride back to campus.

FLAME PRIDE IGNITES

Homecoming 1985 was spectacular!

On a gorgeous fall weekend, without the distractions of Thanksgiving, hundreds of Lee alumni poured onto the Lee College campus in what is being widely described as "the best Homecoming ever"!

The crowds were large and noisy at almost every one of the two-dozen separate events on the Homecoming schedule. The Walker Arena was jam-packed for the ballgame; the Conn Center was sold-out for the Music Extravaganza; and many of the small-group reunions enjoyed capacity crowds.

No doubt about it—the alumni were there in record numbers!

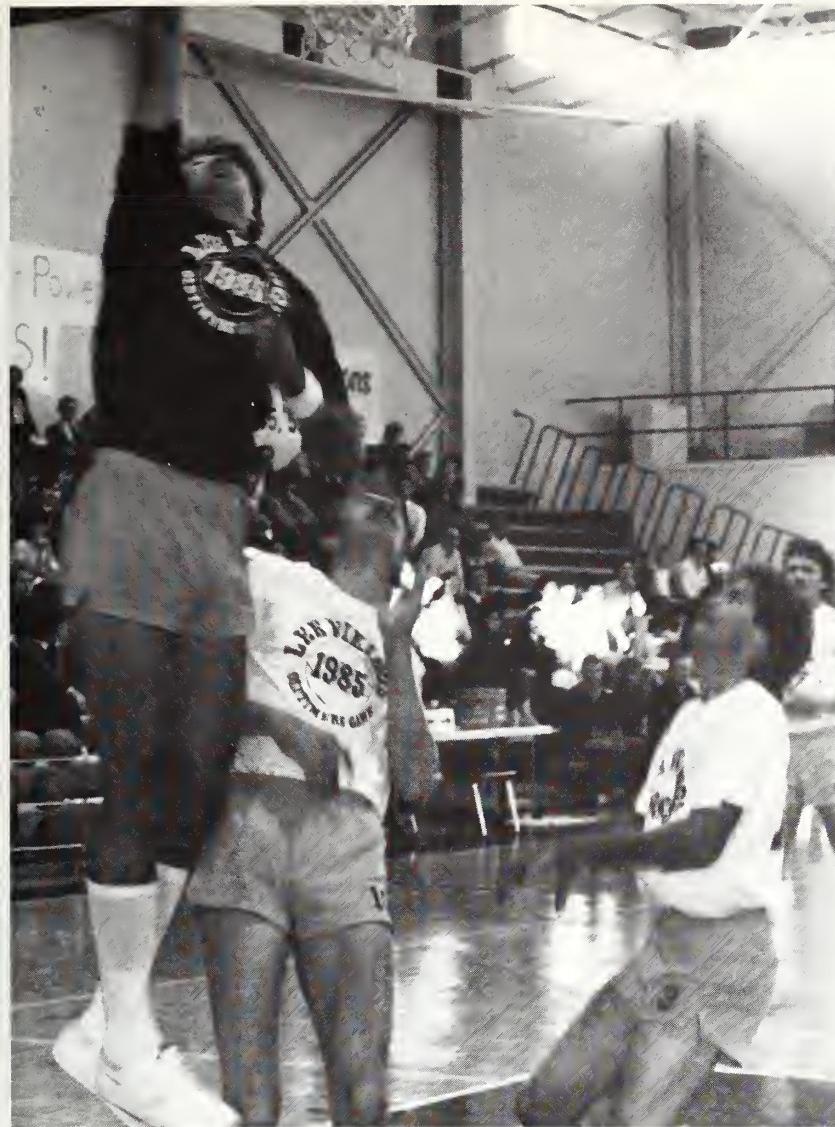

And when they arrived, they chose from a smorgasbord of reunion events which sent hundreds of old grads home full of good vibes and old-fashioned nostalgia. It was Homecoming at its best: a time to share memories of the good ol' days with the people you knew back when. Among the many activities of the weekend were these:

- An old-timers basketball game pitted former Vikings against one another. Dale Hughes coached against Earl Rowan, before a surprisingly large and vocal crowd.

- A banquet for members of the classes of '35, '45, and '55 drew 112 guests to the catered affair in the Student Center. Among the highlights: Dr. Earl Tapley, celebrating his 50th-year reunion, reminisced about his days on campus. (Tapley was the first vice-president in Lee's history, serving in the mid-1950's.)

The "Bleacher Creatures."

Alumni Vikings are now Flames

- The Class of 1965 virtually wallowed in memories of their days on campus. The reunion banquet showed why many have called that class one of the best in Lee's long tradition of training ministers. Of the 75+ alumni who attended, all but 4 were involved in some type of full-time Christian service. Highlight of the night: home movies of Charles Beach doing the "twist."

- A new feature, the Lee College Talent Showcase, drew a large crowd to Conn Center on Friday night while the three class reunion banquets were taking place. The program turned out to be such a popular one that it may be repeated next year.

- Can you imagine food in the Lee cafeteria deserving the label "gourmet"? Incredible—but true! Over 700 alumni, faculty, and students streamed through the dining hall to enjoy the "gourmet brunch" which was staged by David Painter and his food services staff.

- There were 14 separate reunion breakfasts, brunches, and dinners! Perhaps the biggest surprise was the Alpha Gamma Chi brunch, which drew a crowd of 170, including 91 registered Chi alumni! The brunch was a predictably boisterous one, with much off-key singing, more burgundy clothes than you're likely ever to see in one room, and a conspicuous absence of humility.

- Other special-interest groups holding events were Delta Zeta Tau, Sigma Nu Sigma, Upsilon Xi, Science-Math alumni, Business Dept. alumni, Pioneers for Christ, varsity Vikings alumni, Singers of '75, and the various reunion classes.

- The hit of the Music Extravaganza was the performance of the 1975 Lee Singers, who staged their own mini-reunion as part of Homecoming. Dr. Delton Alford conducted the group in selections from its original repertoire, and the audience loved it. Current campus groups sang in the traditional Fall Festival format: Lee Singers, Campus Choir, the Ladies of Lee, and the Lee Players. The original Singers III—less one—also appeared.

PARENTAL VIEW OF CAMPUS LIFE

Always expecting 4.0's and long letters.

Chances are that your view of college and at that of your parent's are on opposite ends of the spectrum. After all your parents are spending roughly $5,000.00 a year to educate you at Lee. They don't like to think that their hard earned money is going to waste, so we have created John Doe. John's lifestyle is similar to the lifestyle many parents think their sons and daughters should have at Lee College. Many parents are lucky to have such dedicated children like John, the other 99% can always dream.

J. Doe deposits his money in the bank, and he only buys what is absolutely necessary.

J. Doe rises early each morning to eat a good breakfast.

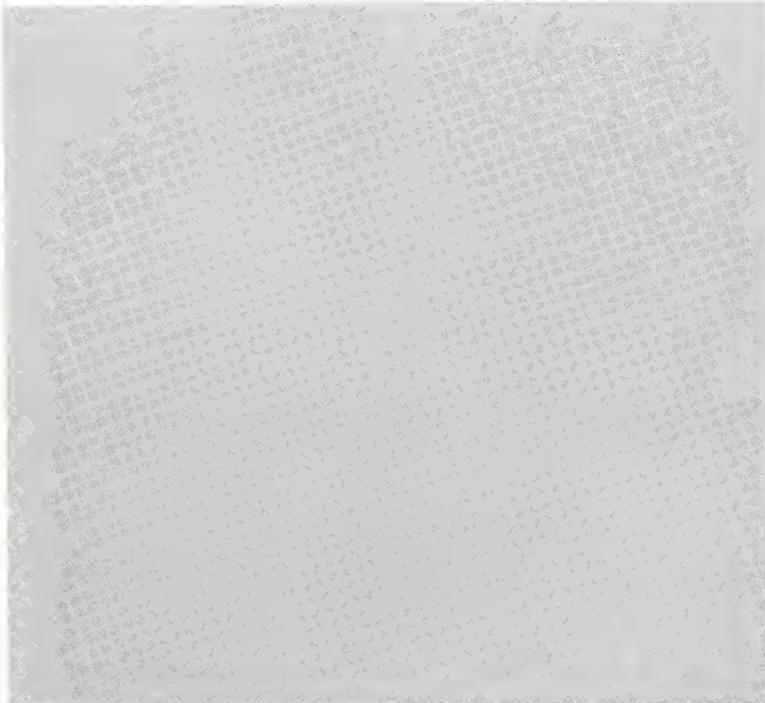

Studying in the library every night.

J. Doe always attends Sunday School.

J. Doe gives his girlfriend a simple kiss good night, for he is a gentleman.

CHI BREAKS WORLD RECORD

100 hours of softball and over $15,000 for the March of Dimes

When you open up a 1987 Edition of THE GUINNESS BOOK OF WORLD RECORDS, be sure to read the section on softball Marathon play. You will find listed the names of 20 members of Alpha Gamma Chi who during the dates of April 1-5 survived 100 hours of continuous softball action. Through pledges and donations the March of Dimes benefited nearly $15,000. Without the unified support from the community and the college, an endeavor such as this would not have been possible. Those who witnessed this historical event will never soon forget the overwhelming emotional experience.

SOCIAL INTERACTION

In the dorm, in the class, and on campus.

There is a certain school of thought at Lee that says the real learning at college occurs not in the classroom, but in social interaction. Many Lee students have a second major in social interaction. They can be found in the student center, cafeteria, dorm lobbies, the alumni park, and on campus before they would be found in class.

There is some truth to this theory; however, we do need a balance. Friendships take time, energy, and diplomacy. Successful friendships at Lee are friendships that last a lifetime. Friendships centered around "the greatest Friend of all" can't fail.

PARADE OF FAVORITES 1986

"Here at our sea-washed gates there stands a lady . . ." In his deep, booming voice, Master of Ceremonies Bob Laughlin invites the audience to come and "Celebrate America," the theme for this year's Parade of Favorites. In a burst of patriotic color, the thirteen contestants and their escorts accompanied Mr. Laughlin as he sang Neil Diamond's "America." Vaguely reminiscent of a scene one would find on a coffee mug, was a backdrop of the New York City skyline. With the mood set and the first number successfully executed, the M.C. took a moment to briefly introduce the judges. Then, after a short introduction and presentation of a rose to the parents of the contestants by the escorts, the talent segment of the program began.

Continuing with the theme of the program, the contestants entertained the audience during the talent portion of the show with a variety of selections, reflecting various facets of American life, from disappointments to dreams. In a tribute to her mother, Alpha Gamma Chi's representative, Laura Roman gave an intimate look at single parenthood with her slide presentation and song, "You and Me Against the World." In a medley entitled "The Road to Peace," Vanessa Daniels, representing the Freshman Class, illustrated her illusions and disillusionments that must be faced as one goes off to college. The Ministerial Association's representative, Melissa McCroskey, performed a medley of "There's Something about that Name / No other Name" in both Spanish and English. Cheryl Henson, representing the Psychology Club, romanced the audience with the theme from "Ice Castles." Carla Miller, representing the Ladies of Delta Zeta Tau, stole the show with her original creation of "Carlota," a life-sized puppet which danced to the number, "Sam, You made the Pants too Long." Nelida Burgos performed a creative interpretation of William Blake's poem, "The Little Black Boy," as she represented the Campus Choir. In a unique monologue entitled "The Importance of being Earnest," Senior Class representative Faith Bledsoe humorously portrayed three separate characters engaged in conversation with one another. Christine Hopkins, representing the Ladies of Lee, portrayed a little girl at an audition, and after a few unmerciful notes on her clarinet, she burst into a charming vocal rendition of "Tomorrow." Proudly representing the Men of Upsilon Xi, DeVee Harkins displayed her musical talent with a violin piece entitled "Opera Goes Opry." Sophomore Class representative Delta Sanders taught us how to deal with "The Big Crush," a humorous but touching look at the teenage crush. Who else could swoon a young lady like Delta, but a Casanova by the name of "Casper!" Keeping with the All-American theme of the evening, International Club representative Ann Chang brought to life the all-time favorite sports poem, "Casey at the Bat." Dressed as a baseball player, Ann delivered the poem like a professional. Sigma Nu Sigma representative Andrea Dismukes captivated the audience as, amidst swirling lights and fog, she revealed her powerful soprano voice, singing Barbra Streisand's "Somewhere." The talent portion of the evening concluded with Debbie Wesson, representing the Lee Singers. Debbie, singing "Gotta Move" against a small-town background, went from a small-town girl to life in the big city. As the band played the theme, "New York, New York," her set changed to the New York City skyline. As she sang, the audience could see Debbie had made her move!

In an incredible display of grace and coordination, the escorts displayed their vast reserve of talent in a humorous "boot-camp" number entitled, "This is the Army, Mr. Jones." Decked in fatigues, this group of elegant young men awed the audience with their witty jokes and synchronized marching formations. As the escorts made their exit, they burst into an ad-lib chorus from "Stripes," and their "doo-wah-diddies" left the audience laughing.

As the laughter died down, last year's reigning Favorite,

Melinda Higginbotham entered and performed her winning talent from last year, a humorous monologue evaluating and devaluating the virtues of the male species. There were numerous "Amens" from the audience when she concluded, saying, "I hope that something better comes along" (now, now, ladies).

On a more formal note came the evening gown competition. Among Greek columns and sculptured fountains the girls emerged, moving like dreams to the ethereal music in the background. One by one, in all their shining glory, the girls floated across the runway. Without breaking the spell, each girl responded to a question, turned, and faded away. After all, wasn't America built on dreams . . . ?

As the judges were to be making their decisions, the show continued. Bob Laughlin and Melinda Higginbotham presented a moving number entitled "America Medley," which was accompanied by a slide presentation with shots from across the nation. This was followed by a prideful rendition of "God Bless the U.S.A.," sung by Mr. Laughlin. For the grand finale, the contestants and their escorts re-entered in a lightly choreographed show of pomp and splendor to join the Master of Ceremonies in singing "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

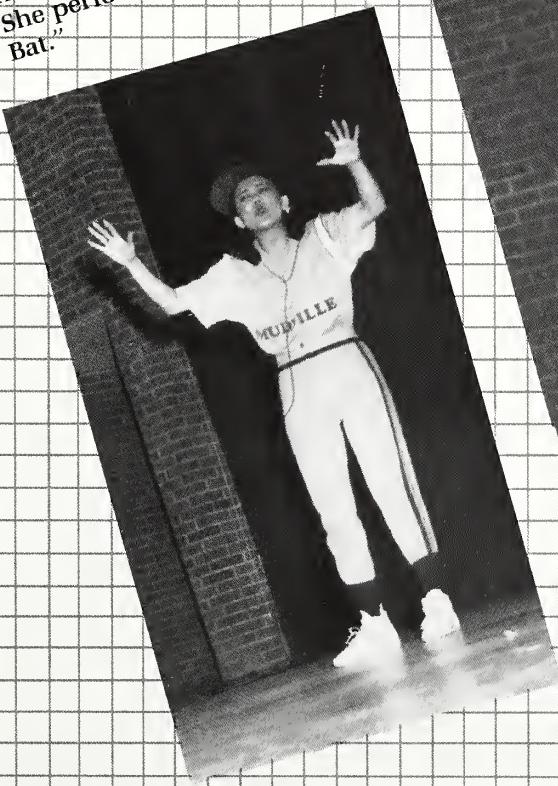

The contestants and their escorts took their places on the stage. The final moment was drawing near. As the judges made their decisions, the backstage crew took the time to present Director Kathy Meadows with a token of their appreciation. The minutes passed, and at the request of the Master of Ceremonies, the band played a few selections. As the wait continued, both audience and contestants began to fidget. But it was the escorts to the rescue, as one by one they paraded down the runway, blowing kisses, waving, and generally "hamming it up." By far the loveliest couple of the evening was Kevin Burns, escorted by Jeff Sargent. But the judges were in a dilemma, and still had not reached a decision. Another number by the band, and still nothing. Once again, it was the escorts to save the day (or evening, as the case may be). In a heroic feat of bravery, Kevin Burns, Kevin Kelley, Charlie Peters, Jeff Sargent, Donnie Evors, Jeff Kallay, Ed Jacox, Ron Harris, Chuck Ramsey, Robbie Paradise, Julius Fabregas, Tim Stone, and Anthony McDaniel came once again, this time donned in coats and tails, to perform "This is the Army, Mr. Jones." As the laughter once again died down, the Master of Ceremonies approached the microphone. The judges had finally reached a decision! Miss Congeniality . . . Cheryl Henson; Talent Award . . . Andrea Dismukes; Academic Award . . . Ann Chang. There was applause as the girls and their escorts accepted their awards and returned to their places on the stage. At this point, all eyes turned to Melinda Higginbotham, as last year's Favorite took her final walk in her winning evening gown.

At last, the final moment was here. The contestants were tense with expectation, as were their escorts. Here was the point where the endless hours of practice finally paid off. "Second Runner-up . . . Miss Devee Harkins"; "First Runner-up . . . Miss Debbie Wesson"; The Master of Ceremonies paused. "Miss Parade of Favorites for 1986 is . . . Miss Ann Chang!" The audience gave her a standing ovation, and Parade of Favorites ended for another year.

The ceremonies finally over, a few members of the audience swarmed the stage to congratulate Ann. Most of them went home, having had an enjoyable evening of entertainment. Few of them will ever know the vast amount of time and energy spent on this production. Nor will they ever experience such creative escapades as "wall-jumping," lip-synching to Phil Collins, or watching the Miller-Kallay cheerleading squad. But it is probably for the best. Parade of Favorites is over, and it will be one more year before the Conn Center is ankle-deep in debris from Wendy's again.

MISS POF

Miss Ann Chang, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Chang of the city of Bangalore in Karnataka, India, represented the International Club. Mr. Julius Fabregas was her escort for the evening. She performed "Casey at the Bat."

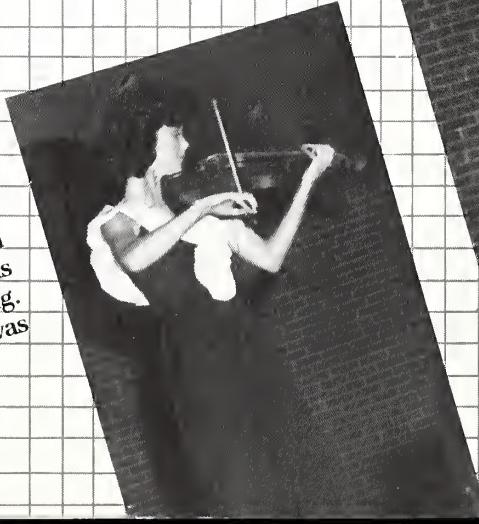

1st RUNNER-UP

Miss Debbie Wesson, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. Stephen Wesson of Decatur, Alabama, represented the Lee Singers. Mr. Anthony McDaniel was her escort for the evening. Her talent presentation was "Gotta Move."

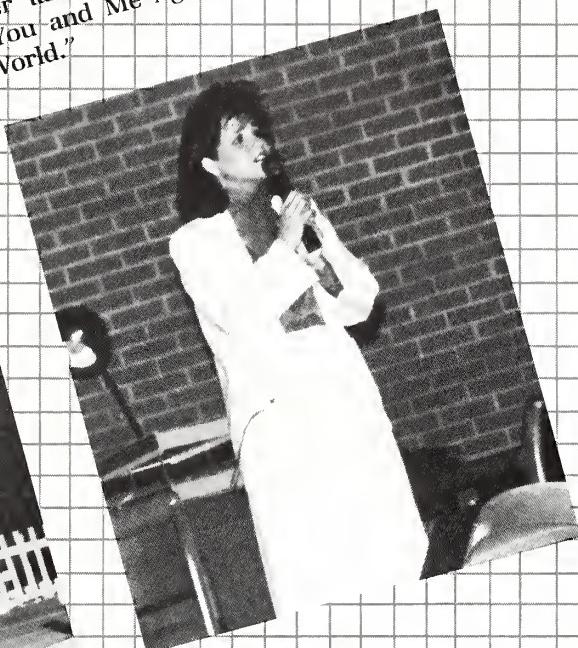

2nd RUNNER-UP

CHAPEL HELPS TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Tuesdays and Thursdays chapels provide more worship time.

This was an eventful year in chapel. For the first time it was Tuesdays and Thursdays rather than the traditional Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

The Outstanding Young Pastors Series brought us ten guest speakers, all Alumni of Lee having graduated within the last twenty years. Luncheons held afterwards enabled some students to meet and talk with them and discover what it takes to become an outstanding young pastor.

Convocations this year were especially memorable. Speakers in the fall were Tony Scott and Danny May. Speaking in the spring were Richard Dial and David Bishop.

This year also held a sad event—the departure of our campus pastor R. B. Thomas. May he bloom where he has been transplanted.

TO FIND A MATE

Engagements: short term vs. long term.

This fall, 300 disillusioned Freshman girls invaded Lee all searching to find the perfect husband. Thoughts of Ph.D.'s were pushed aside as the MRS. degree became first and foremost on their minds.

Unlike most large campus settings, Lee pushes dating and marriage above all. Students feel pressured to take a date everywhere—Sadies, concerts, chapel, and even the cafeteria. The bad part about this is that you can spend more time at Lee with a girlfriend than you would with a wife.

If charm and suave movements fail, a guy can always use the old stand-by "God told me we should date." If the girl hasn't been led of the Spirit though, it's usually a sure sign that God has no part in it. Pity to the girl who does find herself a husband who turns out to be less than perfect, for she might be sentenced to typical COG life consisting of frying chicken and singing alto in the church choir.

The only way to survive the mating game at Lee is to not take it seriously. Remember, a marriage is not final until the vows are said and the rice is thrown.

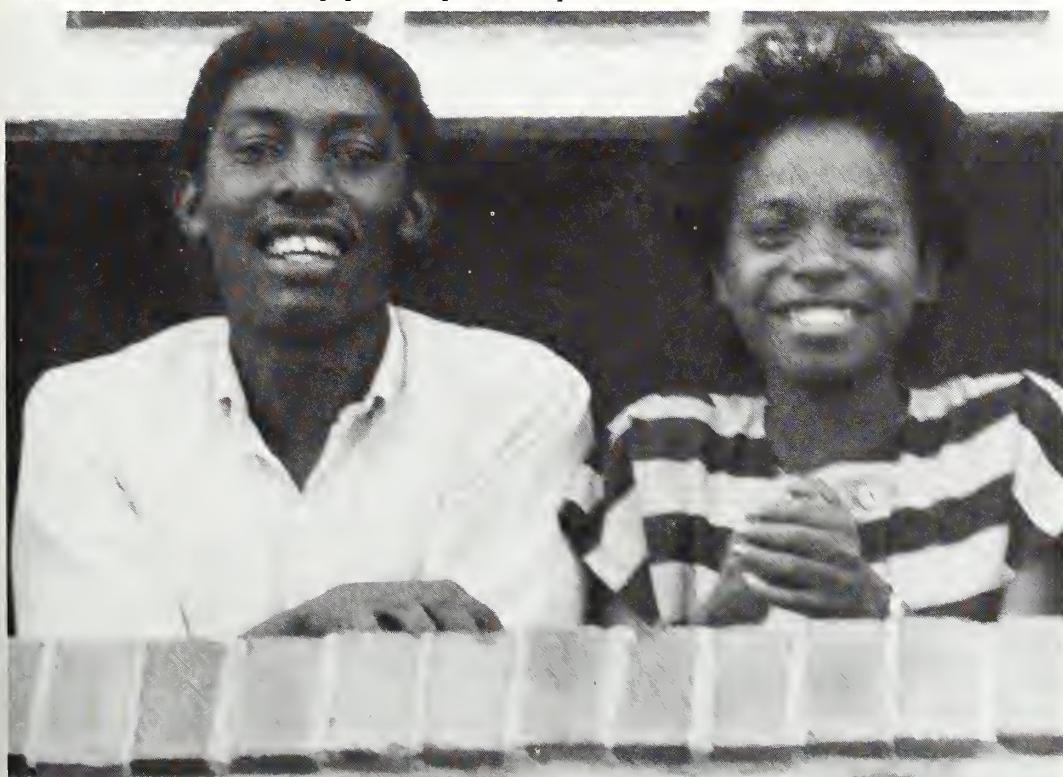

L. Waterman and L. Gimbel enjoy dinner at Wendy's.

Many wonder, "Will K. Ballard—ever ask G. Masengill the big question?"

B. Barlow and S. Smith are a popular couple on campus.

THE DEADLINE HURRICANE LEAVES VINDAUGA STAFF IN THE WAKE OF ITS FURY

"I was dreamin' when I wrote this—forgive me if it goes astray; but when I woke up this mornin', thought it could've been the judgment day." These popular song lyrics strongly describe the work of the Vindauga Staff. It seems that the late-night hours that are spent are merely a dream, but they are not. Of course, when one experiences a lack of sleep, he rarely dreams. The editors began this academic year searching for potential staff workers with previous print experience. Such students actually exist at Lee College; however, soliciting them to work on a campus publication is difficult. Most students complain of "burnout" and share no interest. Those who did apply had little or no experience with the exception of a few. Nevertheless, they did have a desire to learn and work, and the editorial staff had the desire to teach. Unfortunately, years of knowledge cannot be taught in a four-hour weekly period, so when deadlines approached, the editors grew concerned and called upon those staff members who could "solo." However, with this action, several of those with little experience were lost in the shuffle.

TODAY is the Vindauga staff's second judgment day. The first day of judgment was March 18—our last deadline—which we passed. THIS second judgment day is far more important to us—your judgment. To the editors, it seems that the Lee College community is more paranoid about receiving its book before the end of the year than it is about the journalistic quality of the book. Most students judge a book by how often their picture can be found throughout the yearbook. Few students ever read the copy, which is a shame since untold hours were spent preparing it, the majority of it being written quite well. If you are one of those with yearbook experience who did not work on the annual this year, don't be quick to find fault with the book; instead, decide to put your skills to work next year—and MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

LEE COLLEGE MEN'S FLAMES

FLAMES TURN IT AROUND WITH A GREAT SEASON

"New faces, new attitude" is how Interim Athletic Director Paul Duncan described the 1985-86 basketball season. Stepping in to fill the vacancy left by Herbert Cline, Duncan says that the new coaching staff and the addition of some new players to the team give the Flames a new image. Along with this new image came a change in attitude. The players are a tightly knit group who work well with each other and the coaches. This has resulted in better team play.

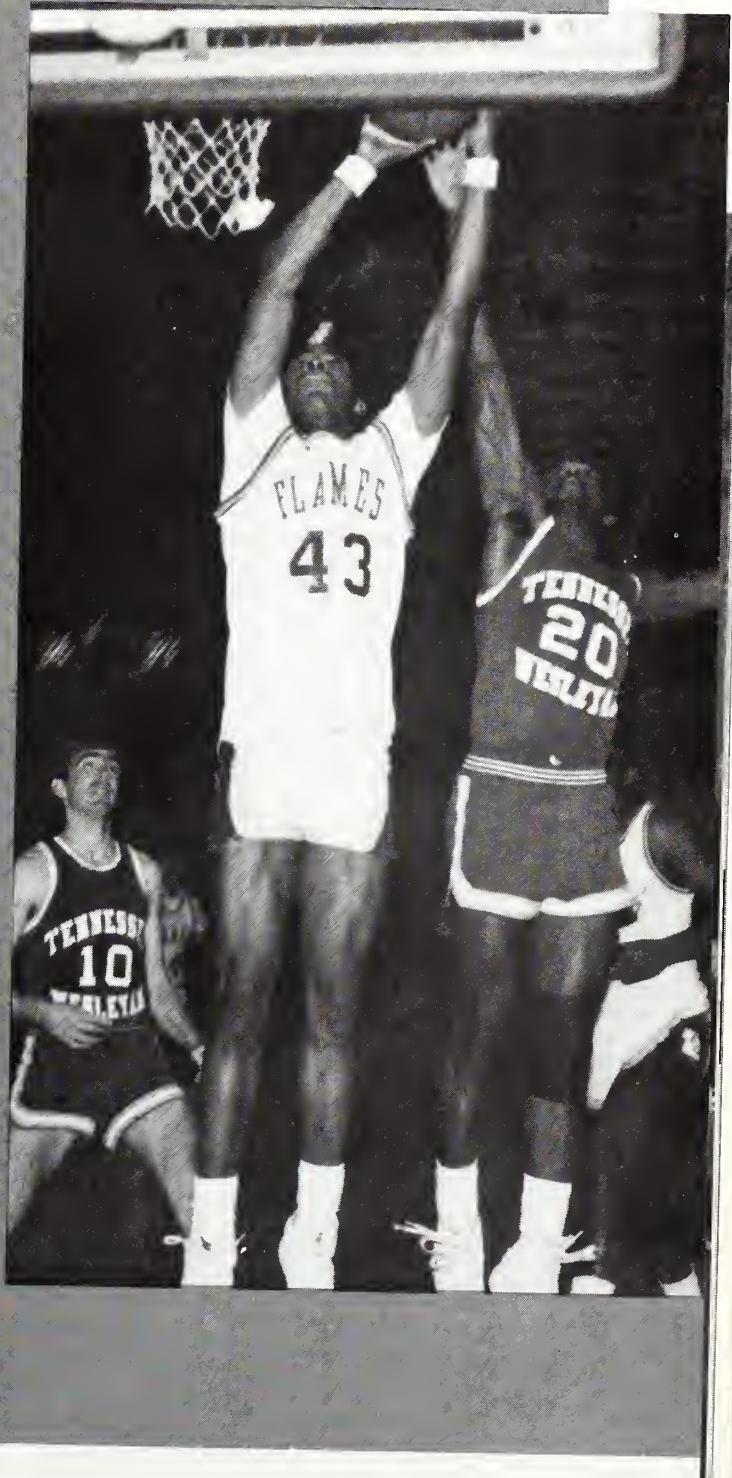

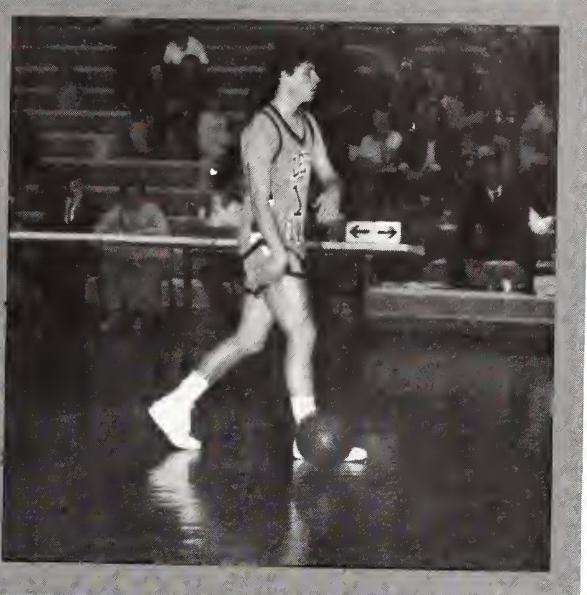

The man at the head of the new coaching staff is Randy Steele. Formerly a Lee College Viking and most recently the youth director at Westmore Church of God, Steele's philosophy of developing players' mental, physical, and spiritual capabilities has produced positive results. "Coach Steele has done a very good job of expressing to the players his philosophy of what a team is, and they have adjusted very well to fill their individual roles," says team Chaplain Mark Grimes. Steele says his definition of teamwork is "the blending of skills of a number of players into a concept of the game plan for the purpose of executing and becoming the very best that those collective individuals can be."

Larry Carpenter and Gary Ray are the two new assistant coaches. Both played for Lee during their years here and are very much respected for their knowledge and dedication. Their investments of time and energy to the team have been a great asset, and Coach Steele feels they deserve a lot of the credit for the team's success.

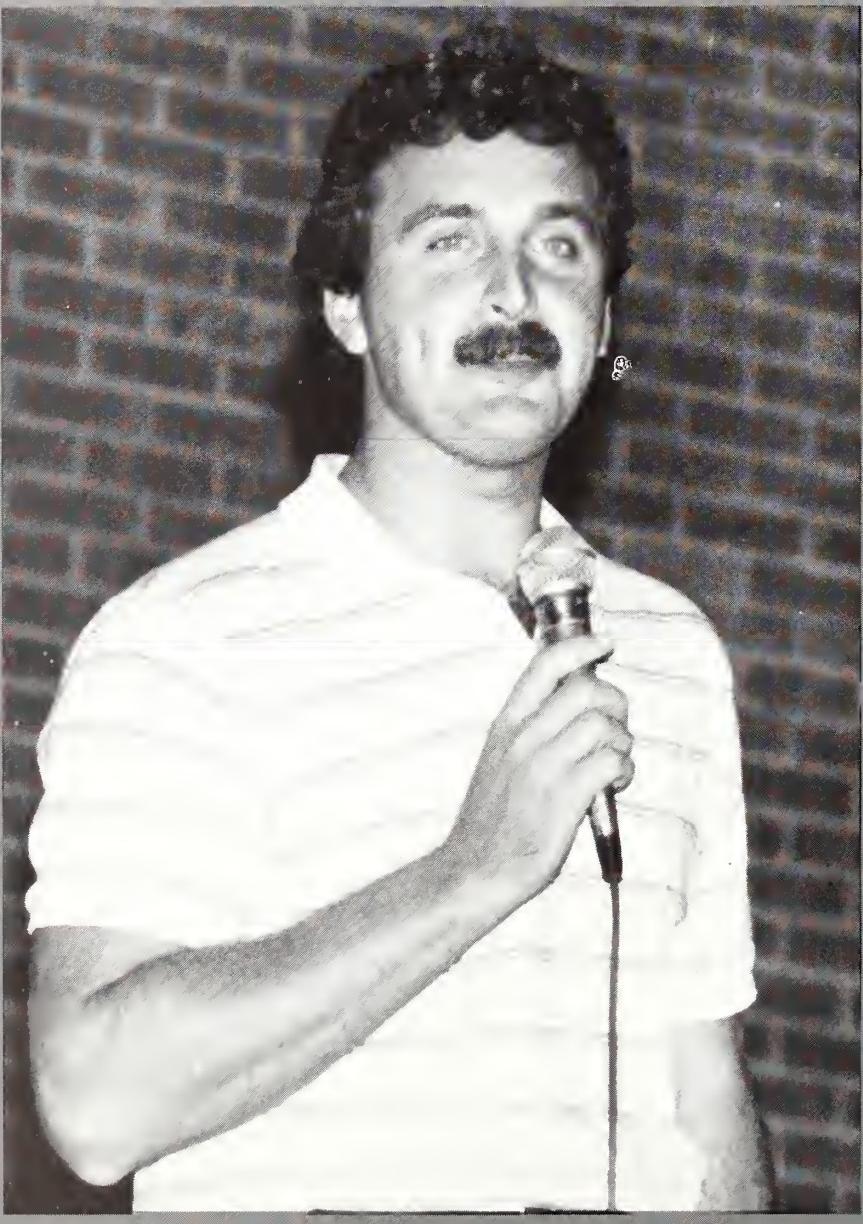

New arrivals to the Walker Arena are Tommy Davis, Ty Watson, Kevin Patterson, and Vince Robertson. Three of them, Davis, Watson, and Patterson, came from Hiwassee Junior College in Madisonville, while Robertson came from Brewer State.

Davis, a center at 6'6", counts his inside play as his best strength. Six-foot point guard Watson is a good ball handler and has shown his leadership abilities on the court. Kevin Patterson, the 6'6" shooting guard is very effective defensively, as well as a good shooter. Vince Robertson, a 6'4" forward, has a natural jumping ability and quickness. These players along with Randy Rogers, Brent Morgan, Richie Hughes, Mark Thomas, and Ron Carter (the talented returnees from last year's team), and Freshmen Duane Parker, Tony Calvin, and Jeff Boatwright have combined to make the 1985-86 Lee College Flames an exciting team to watch. Since the majority of the team is juniors, it will remain largely intact (Rogers graduates in the spring) and that makes the 1986-87 season something to look forward to.

COACH RANDY STEELE

As the 1985-86 basketball season rolled in, so did new Head Coach Randy Steele. Besides saying, "Defense, defense, defense," he is often heard saying, "You have to believe in yourself. If you think you can, then that's half the battle."

Randy Steele is a 1980 graduate of Lee College. He graduated with a B.S. in Christian education and youth. He is married to Jan Henson, and they have two children Randy and Paul.

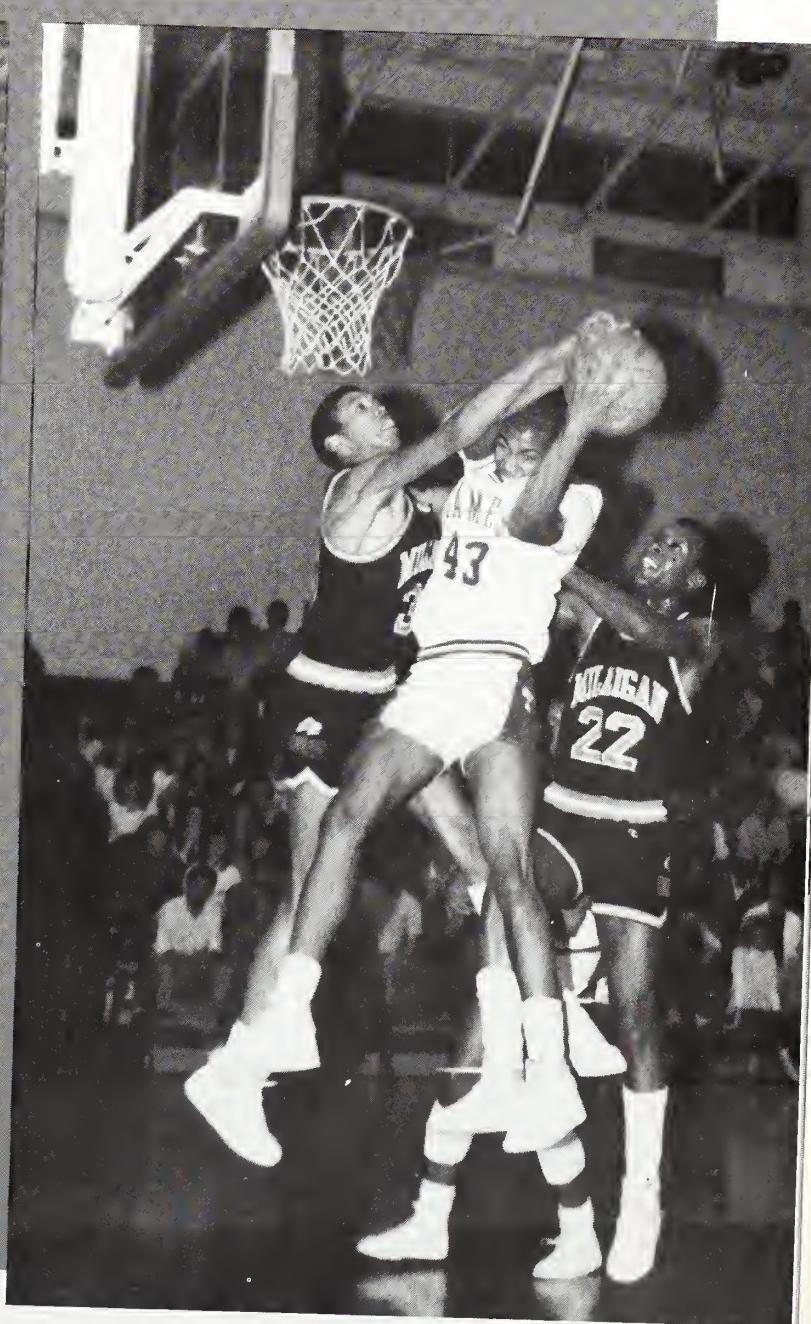

After graduation, he became the youth minister at the Lawrenceville Church of God in Georgia. His next move took him to Oklahoma City where he became the associate pastor of the Southern Hills Church of God. He then accepted the position of youth pastor at Westmore Church of God and remained there for four years before taking the job as the head basketball coach for the Lee College Flames.

Coach Steele started three of his four years as a Lee College Viking. He played basketball with both assistant coaches: Gary Ray and Larry Carpenter. While at Lee he proved himself to be an outstanding player, but he is most noted for the national N.A.I.A. record that he set on January 21, 1978 for field goal percentage, hitting 18 for 18 against Tusculum College.

When asked what goals he had for the team in addition to winning the National Championship, he replied, "Graduation is a priority. That each individual athlete develop attitudes and skills that will help him upon graduation. To see that each athlete develop mentally, physically, and spiritually." Teamwork to Coach Steele means, "the blending of skills of a number of players into the concept of the game plan for the purpose of executing and becoming the very best that those individuals collect can be. It takes hard work, patience, understanding, courage, and self-confidence. Teamwork is a sacrifice for a common goal and with teamwork comes individual recognition."

"We've enjoyed the success of the program, and the program is moving in a positive direction. Larry Carpenter and Gary Ray deserve a lot of credit because they have invested their time and energy as a sacrifice for the team. I would like to thank the student body for all the support that they have given the Flames this year."

LEE COLLEGE LADY FLAMES

CLIMAX SEASON WITH 3RD PLACE IN NATIONAL FINISH

Jack Souther has been coaching the Lady Flames for three years. He came to Lee from a highly-political and secular job as school superintendent in Ohio. According to Coach Souther, "Lee is a beautiful place to work." Lee College has enabled Coach Souther to teach athletics in a Christian atmosphere. The Christian atmosphere "enables me to more effectively communicate with the Lord and lifts me up when I'm down," states Coach Souther.

Teaching Christian leadership is a goal of Coach Souther's. "I want to build a program that teaches Christian leadership. Basketball and athletics are good training for the real world. It teaches hard work—how to lose, how to win, and how to put God first so that all will work out." Making a difference in today's society begins by training students in how to place God first in all they do.

According to Coach Souther, "Captain Bridgett Parks is producing excellent leadership for the team. I'm pleased with the progress of Rosemary Wilcox, Karen Richter, Michelle Baker, Tammy Nieves." Although the yearly loss of players can adversely affect a team, luckily the Lady Flames have been able to retain the skills of some past leaders. Wendy Rudolph was the team's key rebounder and defensive player last year. She has served the team as assistant coach this year. Despite the fact that the Lady Flames may sense the loss of a team member, their performance on the court never lets the school down.

Winning the NCCAA championship last year was an impressive accomplishment for the Lady Flames. According to Coach Souther, "Winning the championship put pressure on the girls to win at the beginning of the season." The Lady Flames played well this year and hope to return to the play-offs again.

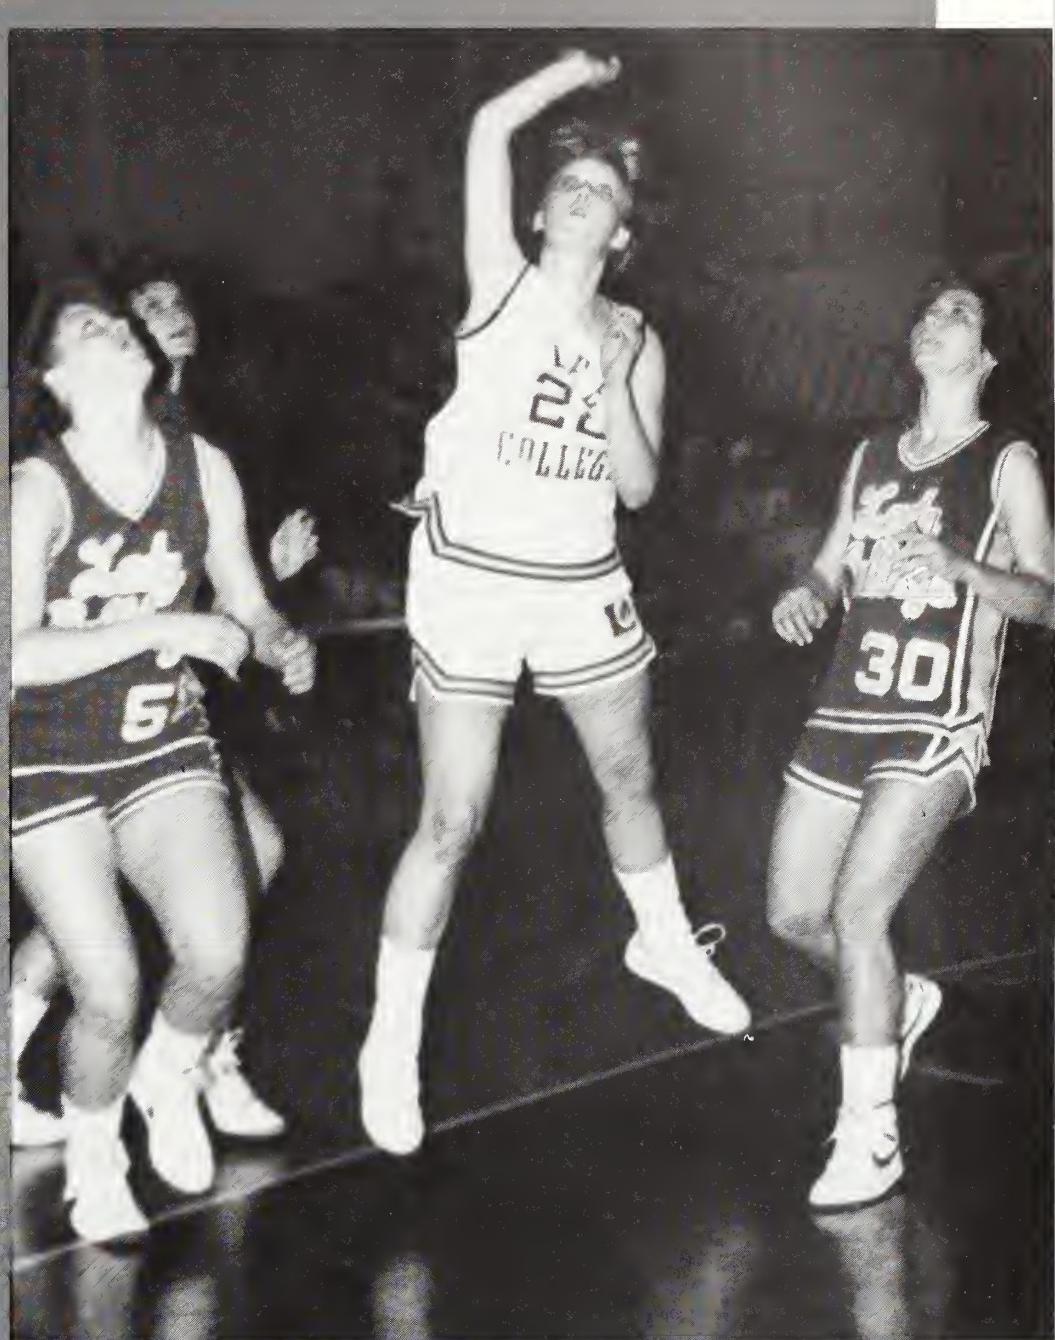

The student body plays a big part in supporting the Lady Flames. Coach Souther states, "The girls and student body have helped me spiritually because there is a love here you just don't experience out there in the real world." The girls on the team also express a deep love and concern for Coach Souther. According to Tammy Nieves, "Coach stresses putting God first in our game." The Lady Flames gather every week for devotions and prayer. These devotions play a major role in unifying the team on and off the court. According to Rosemary Wilcox, "The devotions are great for drawing the team together." The spiritual unity of the team members and the excellent leadership of Coach Souther allow the Lady Flames to make a difference.

CHEERLEADERS

Fanning the Flames

Cheerleading for Lee is that what you say.
I heard you yelling
the other day.
"What do you yell for?"
I ask with a smile.
For the Lee College Flames
you'd run a mile.
You love to yell,
you love to scream,
you jump and shout
and cheer on the team.
A victory is what we're cheering for.
"Come on team!"
We need four more!"
A three point play
has cut it to one.
One more hoop
and our job will be done.
A steal down court—
time is running out.
Racing down the court,
his jersey hanging out,
the ball is in the air
heading for the goal.

It shoots through the rim;
our team is on a roll.
The victory is sweet!
All the fans think it's neat.
The cheerleaders did their job;
they jumped and screamed and yelled—the school's honor they upheld.

By Lisa Sylvester

The cheerleaders not only cheered to support the team, but they exhibited Christian character and sportsmanship, uplifting the name of the Lord. A lot of hard work and practice demonstrated their dedication to the Lee Flames, and they showed their enthusiasm throughout the whole season this year. As a result of this enthusiasm and their crowd motivation abilities, the fans were ranked No. 1 in team support by the CLEVELAND DAILY BANNER. In addition, through bake sales, cosmetic sales, and cookie and candy fundraising, the cheerleaders raised money for new uniforms.

Sponsor JoAnn Higginbotham has been a great supporter of the cheerleaders for the past six years. She is an inspiration to the girls as she exemplifies total Christian living: care for the body, mind, and spirit.

LEE COLLEGE TENNIS TEAM

SERVES UP ACES DURING SEASON

This year the Lee College tennis team begins its second year of intercollegiate competition as a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletes (NAIA). Led by returning students Julius Fabregas, #1 player, and Jason Johnson, #2 player and team captain, the eight-member team looks forward to an exciting season from March 8 through May 3.

In the world of tennis, love means nothing; however, this is not the case at Lee College. Love for the game is what motivates these young athletes to participate. Paul Duncan, team coach, states, "At the present time we have no student aid or scholarships, so those who play are people who really love the game." Love for the game is also evident in the activities of the busy men who sponsor the team—Coach Paul Duncan and Assistant Coaches Randy Steele and Gary Ray.

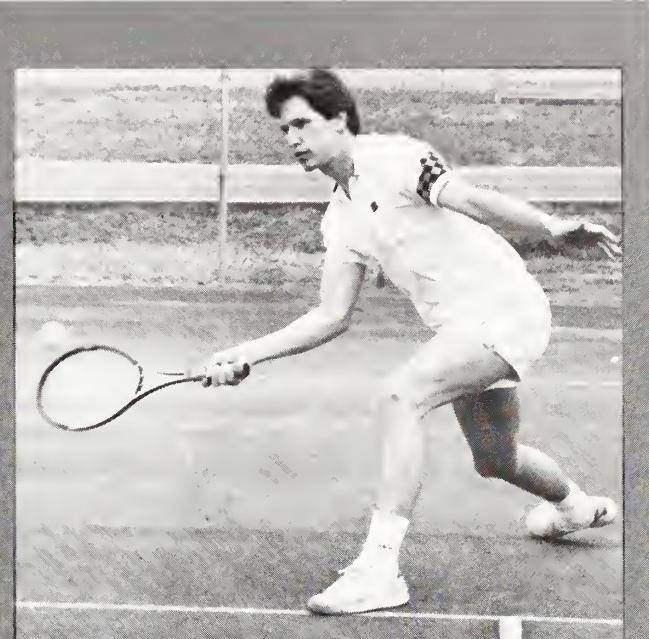

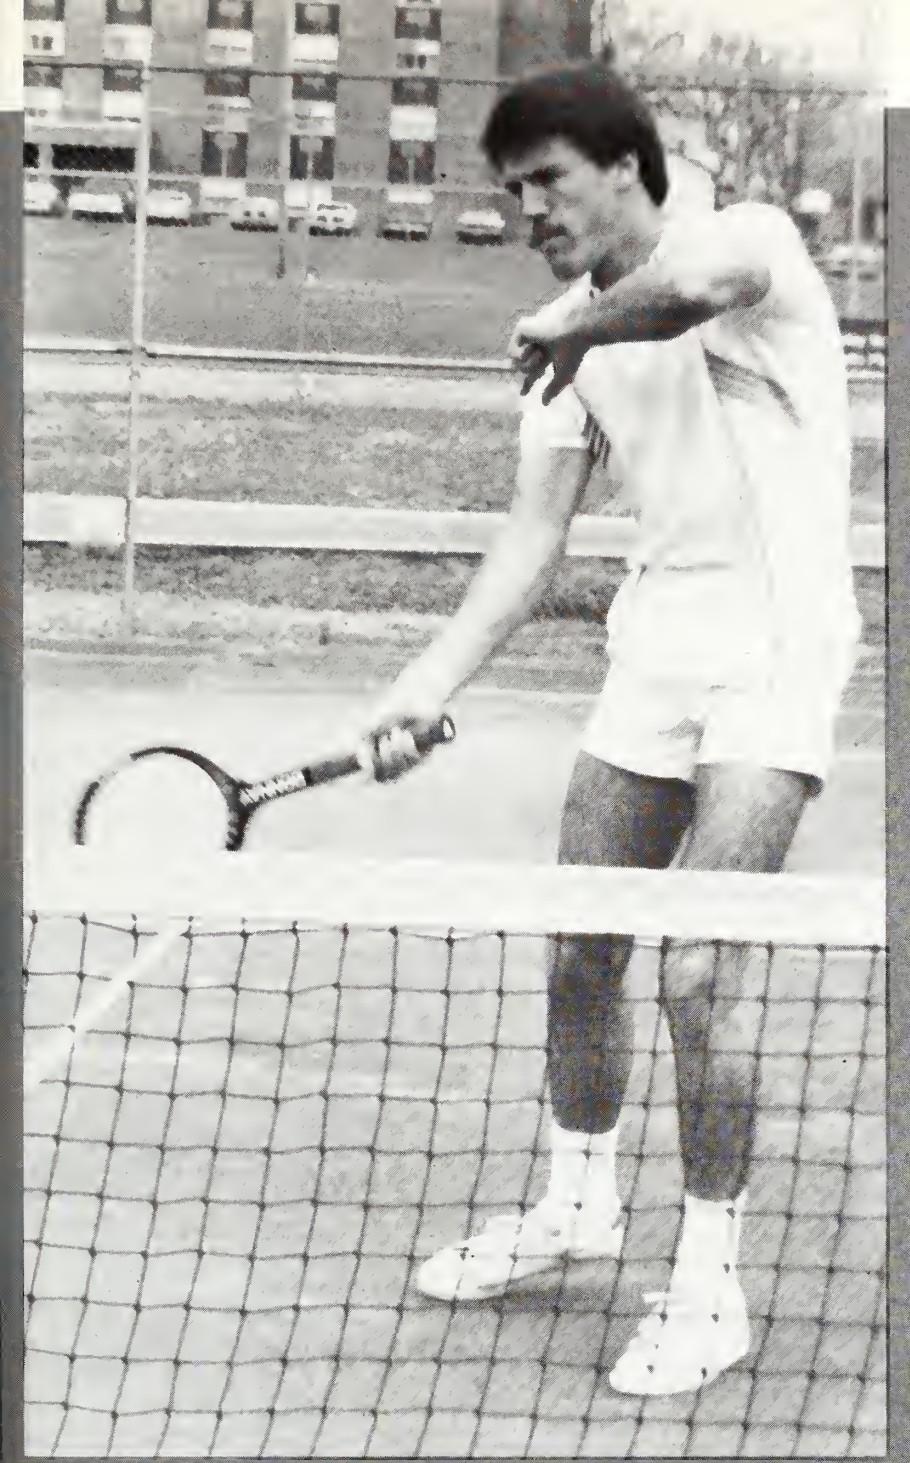

Duncan has great things to say about his players: "The members of the team are good students as well as good athletes, several have B+ averages."

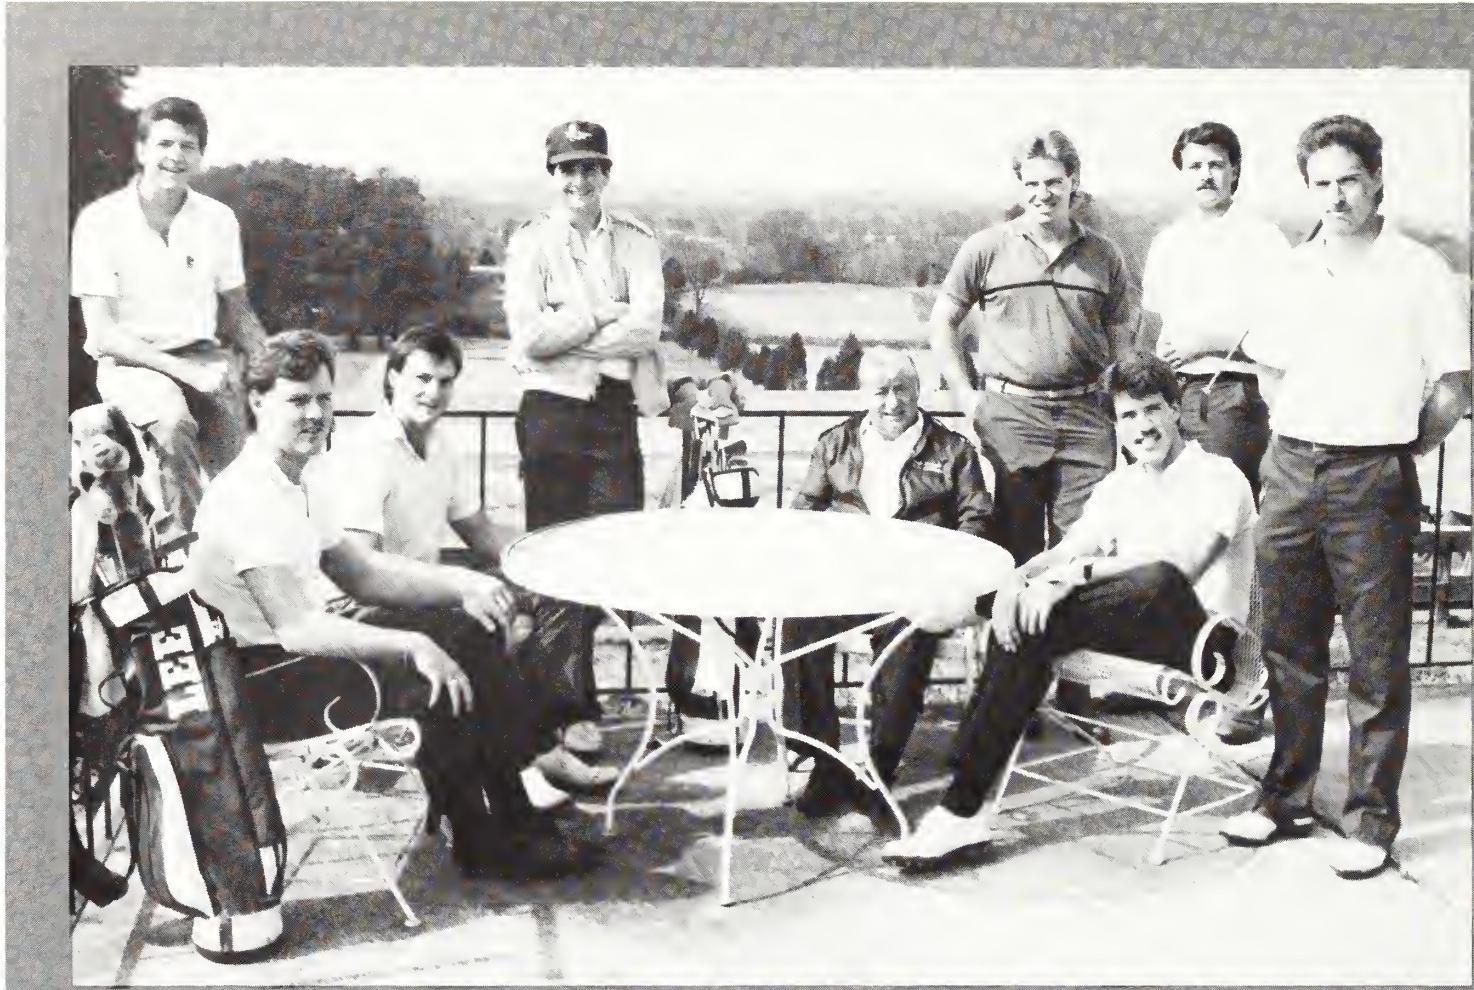

This year's team is made up of returning players, Julius Fabregas, Jason Johnson, and John Forehand, and new players, Donny Dobson, Harold Cochran, Joe Barnett, Bill Barrow, and Darin Miller.

Presently, home games are played at the Family Life Center of the First Baptist Church of Cleveland. However, according to Duncan, "The college is planning and is committed to relocating our tennis courts and having first-rate courts in the near future."

As for the future of the program, Duncan remains confident. "This year we will have a stronger team. I personally think we will win more than half of our games. However, if we are to continue moving ahead, we need to attract and recruit quality tennis players for the Tennessee Valley Athletic Conference (TVAC)."

LEE COLLEGE GOLF TEAM STRIVES TO SHOOT FOR PAR

Once again the Lee College golf team exemplified true Christian sportsmanship. Returning from last year are team members Paul Spell, Harold Cochran, Ron Morris, and Vince Stone. Chris Owensby and Alex Bivins round out the roster this year. Both are returning from a year's leave of absence. To show Christian witness in a game where it is so easy to lose your temper can sometimes be a hard thing to do. According to coach/sponsor Stanley Butler they "try to stress the character building through competitive golf and expect our athletes to be Christian gentlemen, never getting mad over a bad shot or excited over a good one." Lee College can be proud in the fact that our team has accomplished just that. Combining true Christian sportsmanship, and excellent golfing abilities, they have formed the ideal Christian golf team.

INTRAMURALS FULL OF COMPETITION

INTRAMURALS HELP STUDENTS FILL TIME

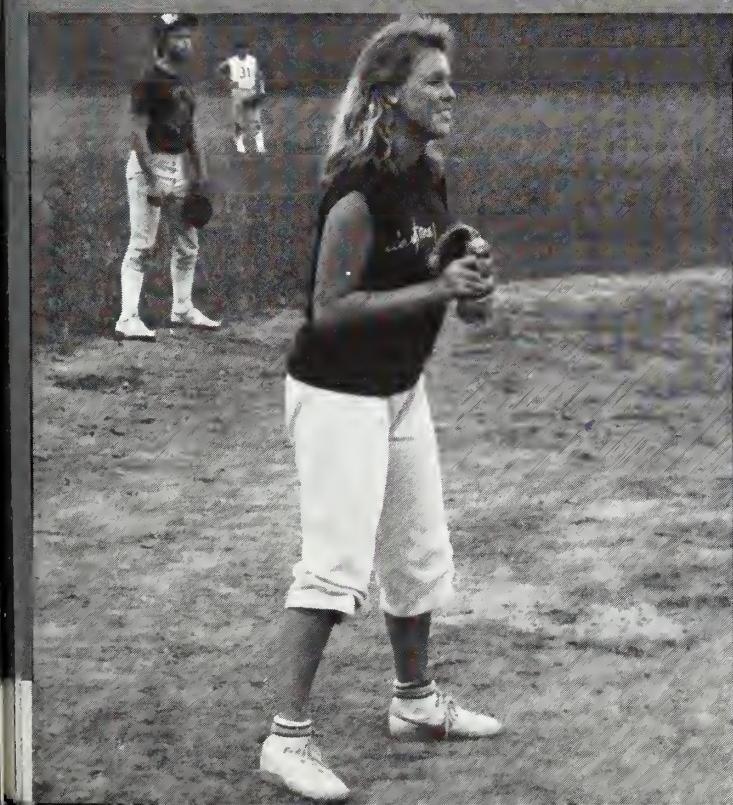

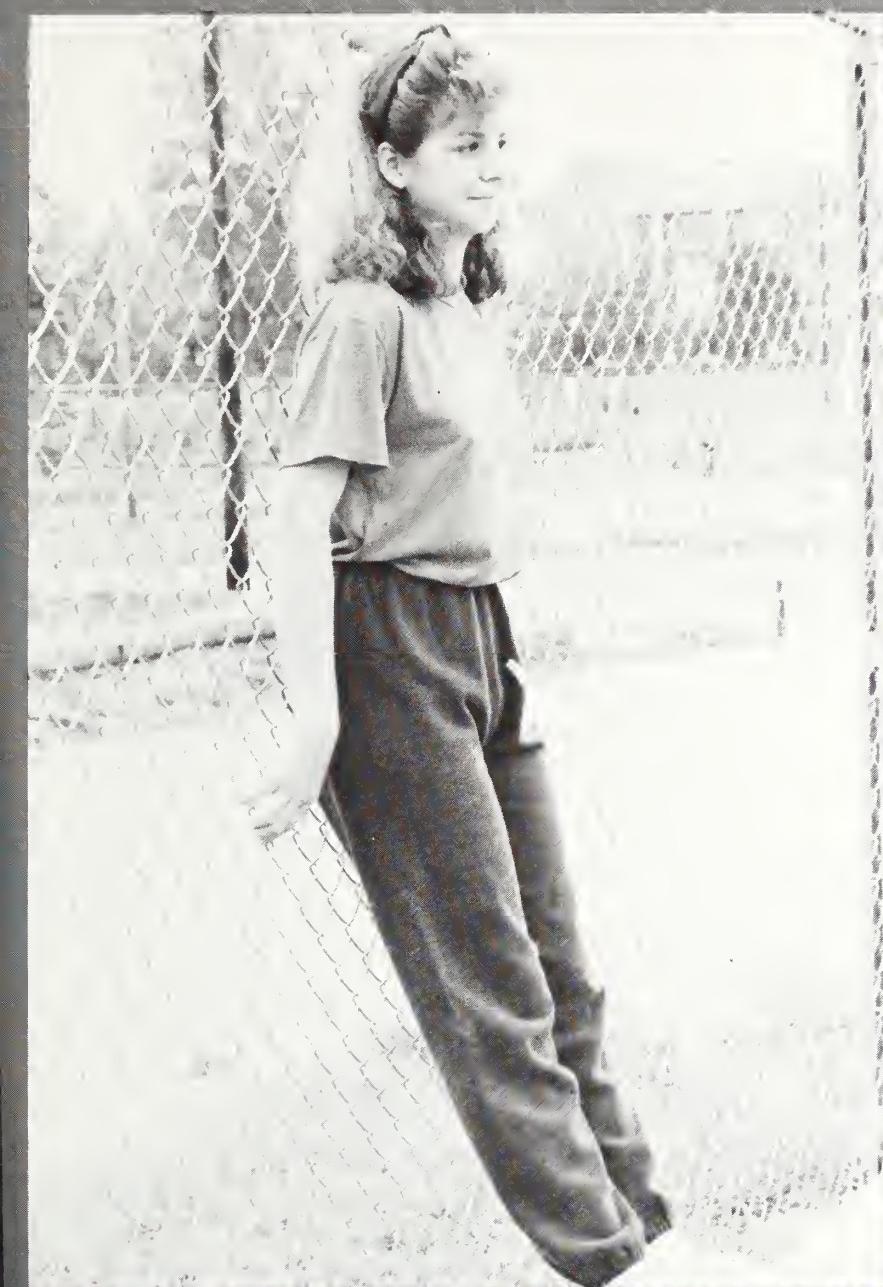

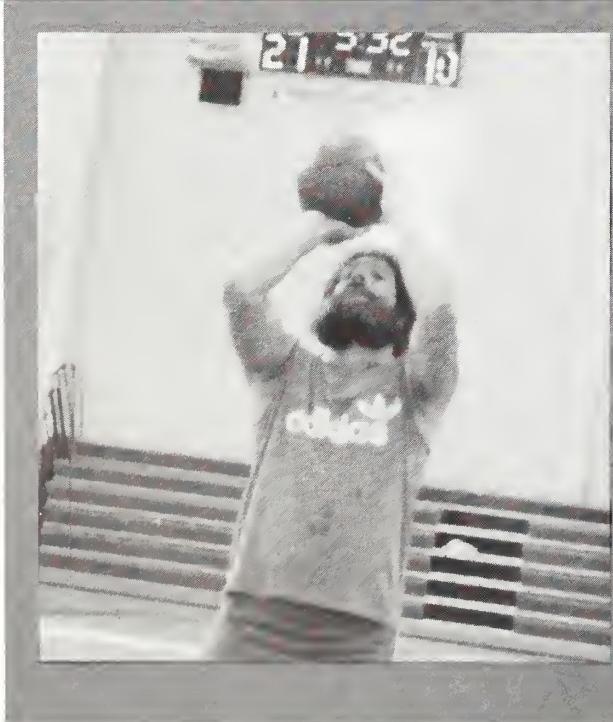

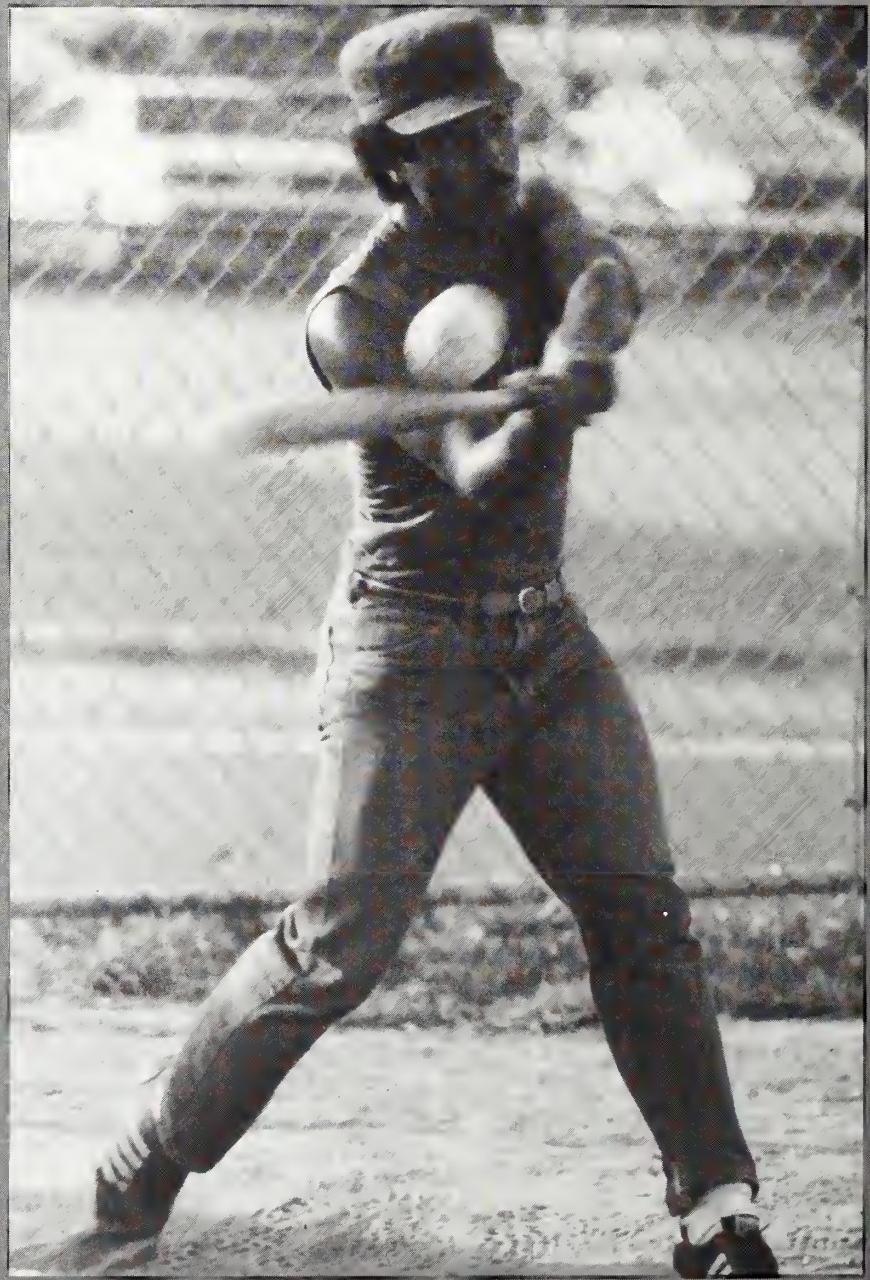

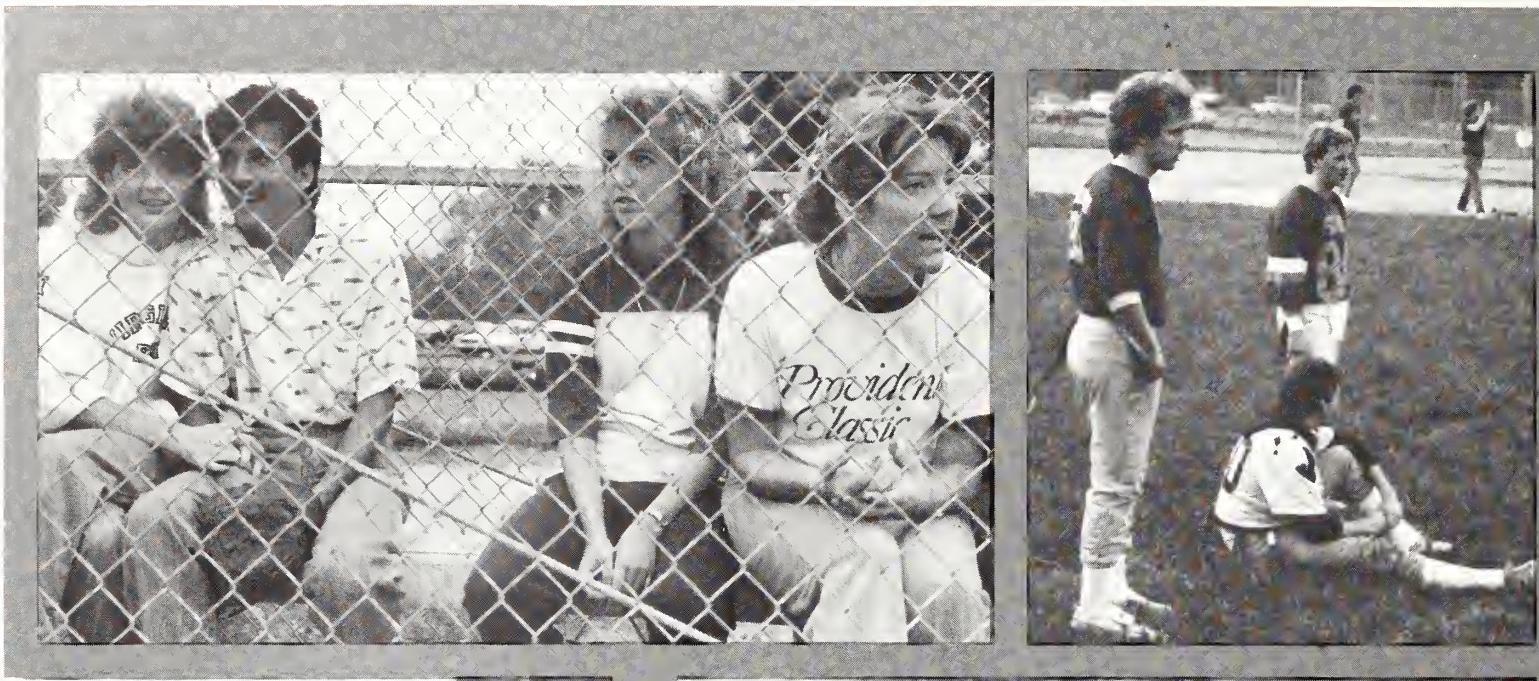

The 1985-86 college year was momentous for intramural athletics at Lee College. With Jack Souther, coach of the Lady Flames, at the helm, the program has experienced more student participation and cooperation. During spring registration the intramural program was given more visual publicity through posters and a student bulletin. "Students have shown great concern and have helped to develop a new and stronger unity among fellow athletes," stated Coach Souther.

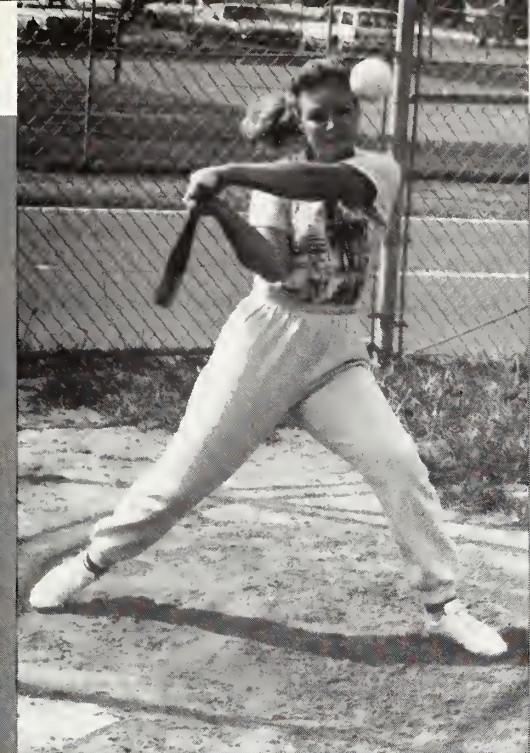

In basketball, two leagues were established to provide more balance and equal competition. Division A is for more experienced players and those who have competed in high school or college basketball. Division B was established for the less experienced players. The highlight of Division A basketball competition was the Alpha Gamma Chi versus Upsilon game. The season's largest crowd was on hand as the black and gray defeated Chi by one point in an overtime decision.

With representation from several groups and social service clubs, intramurals will continue to be successful.

Aside from the sustaining grace of God provided through Jesus Christ, there is no asset available to the Church more valuable or vital than its young people. A venerable bishop once observed, "a denomination is only one generation away from extinction." By those words he meant to emphasize that unless the young people of the Church are prepared spiritually and academically to be the Church of their generation, the Church will cease to be.

The Church of God, therefore, looks to its young people with great hope and anticipation. We expect you, under God, to become an even more productive Church than the generation which preceded you. We salute you for your pursuit of an education in an institution which gives equal attention to the nurture of mind, soul and spirit.

THE LAST WORD

"You are completely mad," he said, rising. Eve smiled and murmured, as if to herself, "Not enough so."

Jean-Paul Sartre, The Room

When I embarked on this venture fondly referred to as the VINDAUGA I saw only a small docile task waiting for someone with mediocre talent to complete. Since then I have learned that the word VINDAUGA is a rather vague expression which has come to mean; occasional insomnia, neglected friendships, skipped classes, missed meals, disappearing free time, relentless nuerotic anxiety and destroyed G.P.A. not to mention tremendous amounts of pure unadulterated work. In addition to this I had the distinct privilege of being a sounding board for unrelenting criticism from the Lee College Community. If a photo was inappropriate I was told about it. If someone did not get their picture taken after having eight separate notices I was blamed. If last year's VINDAUGA was not mailed to J. Doe who had moved six times since graduation and not notified us of it, I was verbally abused and labeled in a demeaning way. Yet I enjoyed doing this immensely which has brought upon myself another label, "INSANITY." If you agree that to put up with this and like it is to be mad then

I join with Eve and say "Not enough so." From my perspective I have seen this campus in its good and bad moments and have found that the good far outweigh the bad. I have also found that Lee is what you make it for better or for worse, you forge your own destiny here. I have learned to love this school and its people, people who are definitely different. And people who are making a difference and will continue to do so through life. So I like the VINDAUGA and its unique perspective, and if that is mad then I am insane. I did not come upon this insanity solo, however, and I owe more thanks than is possible here to the following people without whom the VINDAUGA would not have been possible.

— Dr. Carolyn Dirksen, Bob Fisher, and Alisa White—for their continued guidance, advice and support.

— Dr. Paul Conn—for direction and advice in crucial times and "enlarging" my perspective on things.

— Jeff Kallay—you are the greatest friend in the world. Thanks for the constant support, endless arguments, grandma's cookies and Madonna album.

— Ozzie Carranza—you are the hottest photographer I know and the largest Gazelle I've ever seen.

— Charles Wesson—my favorite roommate of all times and favorite ads man. Good luck with Kathy.

— Rod Jeffords, Phil Morris, and Randall Parker—3 men who have listened to me more than humans should be allowed to. Your support, feedback, and prayers were greatly appreciated.

— My Girls—Sharon, Laura, and Julie—Ya'll are the greatest ever.

— The Lee Singers and the Men of Alpha Gamma Chi—you are my second families without whom I would be lost.

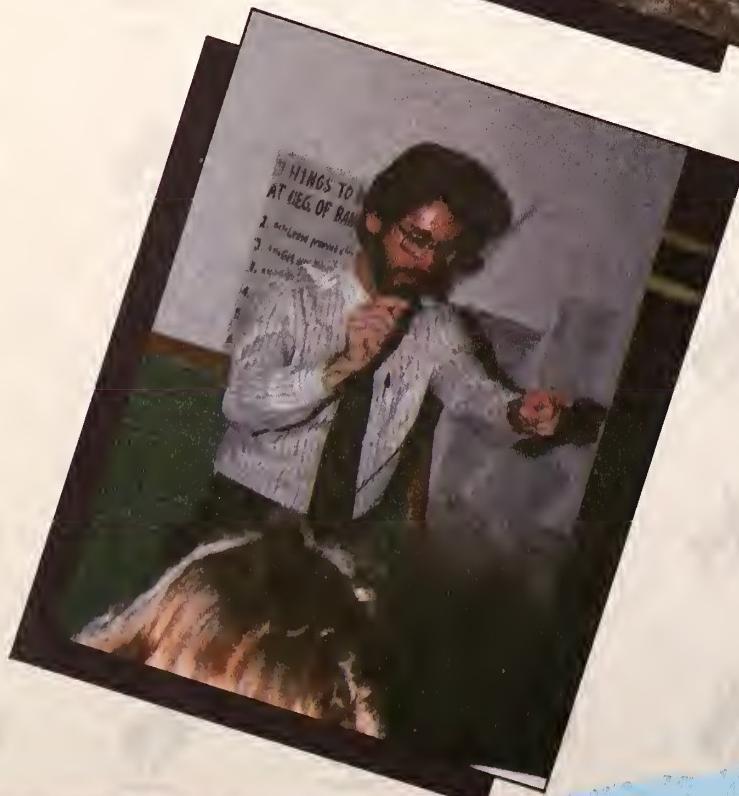

— The Lee College Student Body—for allowing me inside your lives as you make the difference.

— Susan—You are my best friend. I love you so very much and would not have made it this year without you supporting me. All things considered knowing you has really made the difference.
